Canadian Troops Arrive in Italy

CAPODICHI, Italy (CP)—Three RCAF planes arrived at this Italian base today during a morning drizzle, carrying the first 35 members of Canada's Own Rifles for the United Nations Middle East police force.

The planes took off from Montreal Monday night. The contingent is commanded by Lt.-Col. G. K. Wade, Montreal.

The platoon commander is Lieut. D. L. Williams, 25, of Calgary.

Some of the Canadians looked serious and some happy-go-lucky as they returned to the land where the 1st Canadian Division made history in the Second World War.

All wore the blue and white armband issued by the UN command.

WESTERNERS IN GROUP

Supervising the unloading of the planes was 24-year-old Cpl. Edward Lamperd of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps. He comes from Ingersoll, Ont.

Among those helping him were Pte. Fred Zack, 25, of Squamish, B.C., and Cpl. Hugh Graham, Stoughton, Sask.

Neapolitan families stood on the balconies of houses and shouted "Viva i Canadiani (long live the Canadians)."

Hundreds Ready Big Carrier For Her Role as Troop Base

HALIFAX (CP)—Hundreds of workers—many of them volunteers—swarmed over the carrier Magnificent during the night and started pulling down guns, unloading ammunition and hoisting aboard enough supplies to keep more than 1,500 Canadian troops in the Middle East UN police force.

At the bow of the big flood-lit carrier a team of surveyors was studying plates that were

BUDAPEST RADIO REPORTS:

Hungarians Deported In Sealed Rail Cars

(See Also Page 3)

VIENNA (AP)—Radio Budapest said today that Hungarians were being deported to the east in sealed railway cars by Russian troops trying to end the rebellion in Hungary and get the workers back to work.

The Budapest station, controlled by the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar, made the surprising admission in a broadcast explaining why the general strike was continuing.

Reporting on the situation late today in Szolnok county, southeast of Budapest, the radio reported that about 40 per cent of the workers had returned to work and that some rail traffic had started.

"But," the station said, "according to the latest reports prisoners have been transported to the east in locked railway cars and for that reason the railwaymen started to strike again."

The station said various plants were notified of the deportation of Hungarians and that "workers, therefore, now are leaving their jobs in increasing numbers."

Rumors that the Russians were rounding up rebellious youths for deportation have circulated on the Austrian border for several days. The Vienna newspaper Der Kurier quoted Hungarian refugees as reporting the Russians also have started deporting the wives and children of rebels in order to stamp out the last vestiges of the anti-Communist revolution.

The refugees, who crossed the Austrian border Tuesday night, said the deportations began simultaneously four days ago at the towns of Szolnok, Debrecen, Nyiregyhaza and Puspokladany. In each place hundreds of women and their children were dragged into heavily guarded freight trains which afterward left in an easterly direction, they said.

Attempts of the insurgents to stop these trains broke down in heavy Russian fire, the refugees said. Some of the transports were reported to have left the country for the Soviet Union at the Zahony border checkpoint.

Anti-Soviet Riots Reported in Romania

VIENNA (Reuters)—Reliable sources said here today riots, arrests and anti-Soviet demonstrations have been taking place in a predominantly Hungarian-populated region of Romania.

The reported riots in the Transylvania region have not been mentioned by the official Romanian press and radio.

UN Word Needed Before PM Acts

Cabinet Waits Emergency Call To Sign UN Police Force Order

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The federal cabinet will be called into emergency session to approve the placing of Canadian troops at the disposal of the UN police force "as soon as we receive the green light" from the UN, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

(Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold gave the signal to start moving UN police forces into Egypt shortly after Mr. St. Laurent made his statement to reporters.)

Parliament will be summoned into special session when the cabinet has passed an order-in-council to send the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, to the Middle East.

NOT UN TROOPS

Mr. St. Laurent emphasized that the advance party of Canadians that took off from Montreal for Naples and the advance staging area for the UN force south of that Italian city was not part of Canada's contribution to the UN force. It was merely an advance party exploring the facilities of the staging area to report back to the national defence department.

"They want to find out the conditions under which our Canadian troops will be living. They will report to the chief of staff (Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham). We do not want our forces to be living under less comfortable conditions than they have had at home," said Mr. St. Laurent.

Meantime, he said, the government had instructed the defence department to proceed with all necessary preliminary preparations so that the Canadian force will be in a position to move into the Middle East.

MANY PROBLEMS

Conditions laid down by Egypt governing the operations of the proposed UN police force in that country held up the movement of the force into the Suez area.

Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN force, said at Rome there were many "outstanding important problems" relating to his new task to be worked out.

He said some would require

"long high level diplomatic negotiations."

Prime Minister St. Laurent has been in close communication with Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, who is at the United Nations. Hon. Ralph Campney, minister of national defence, has also been in touch with Mr. Pearson and the UN authorities.

A full report on the situation in the Middle East from Mr. Pearson was read to Cabinet Wednesday. Mr. Campney also reported on the preparations underway for moving the Canadian force abroad.

$2 Million Polish Aid To Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Poland reported to the United Nations Tuesday the largest cash donation thus far for the aid of Hungary—$2,000,000.

The UN listed $1,000,000 from the United States for aid to Hungarian refugees. In all, nine nations offered a total of $3,762,500, plus food and other items.

France offered to accept "any refugees who wish to come here." Argentina pledged to take 3,000 refugee children. Canada gave priority to immigration of Hungarian refugees.

Definite quota acceptances were: Switzerland 2,000, Sweden 1,000, Belgium 4,000, Netherlands 1,000, United States 5,000, Britain 2,500, Italy 2,000, Australia 3,000.

Moscow Report Hints 50,000 Ready to Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today ordered the UN police force to start moving to Egypt. (At Rome Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN Middle East force, said the first unit of the international policing body will fly Thursday morning to Egypt.)

NEW YORK (AP)—A CBS broadcast from Moscow said today Egypt, according to reliable information, has asked Russia for the volunteers the Russians have offered in the Middle East crisis.

Dan Schorr, CBS correspondent in Moscow, was cut off the air by the Russians when he started to enumerate details of the volunteer force.

He later was allowed to resume after all such references had been eliminated.

Schorr predicted the Russians would comply with the reported Egyptian request if their "statements of recent days mean anything."

Schorr said in the broadcast: "The Middle Eastern crisis has taken a grave new turn tonight. I am reliably informed that the Egyptian Embassy here has received orders from Cairo to ask for the volunteers that Russia has offered and that this request is being relayed to the Soviet government."

"If the Soviet statements of recent days mean anything, the request will be complied with."

"Many things are still unclear. How many will go? The Egyptian embassy said that it has more than 50,000 applications on hand. Whether they would take their own arms and whether heavy equipment such as planes and tanks will be furnished to them from here are other questions."

"But there's one indication. A reserve lieutenant-colonel was quoted in the Soviet press today as saying 'I'm ready with weapons in my hands.' There's reason to believe the volunteers will be formed into units here and receive their equipment here."

"An Egyptian source told me 'We don't have equipment for them in Egypt.' The volunteers include 265 . . ."

Form of Opposition Unclear

At Washington President Eisenhower said today the United States would oppose—probably through the United Nations—any intervention in Egypt by Soviet or Chinese Communist volunteers.

He told a press conference, his first since re-election, that the nature of such opposition would depend upon the specific circumstances of any intervention.

A week ago, the White House issued a statement saying that the introduction of any new armed forces into Egypt "would violate" the United Nations charter, and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

In Moscow today an Arab source said Egypt's ambassador, Mohammed El Kony, had been instructed by his government to request the immediate dispatch of Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt. It was taken for granted the Kremlin would put no obstacles in the way of the volunteers' departure.

At the United Nations in New York diplomats frankly admitted a grave situation might develop if Russian volunteers began moving and one high Western delegate said flatly "this means war."

'This Means War' Diplomat Says

The dispatches from Moscow, indicating the plan was in the process of being put into effect, sent American officials into conferences on the next step.

The officials were reported as feeling that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold should fly to the Middle East without further delay to try to head off the entry of the "volunteers."

The Suez Canal likely cannot operate again for months, even with the best repair work undertaken quickly. The pinch on oil supplies in Europe is growing acute already; Sweden goes under strict rationing tonight.

Meanwhile, a team of 12 UN truce observers from Palestine landed at Port Said Tuesday and drove immediately to the front lines at El Cap, south of the port.

Until arrival of the bulk of the UN force, the chief mission of the observers will be to help keep the cease-fire along the 600-yard-wide no man's land in the canal zone.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns said today that while waiting for the arrival of Hammarskjold, he would make a "quick inspection trip" from Rome to the staging area.

EGYPTIAN CONDITIONS
Looming over the operation were conditions laid down by Egypt for the policing role and the conflicting British, French and Israeli positions.

President Nasser is reported to have insisted the international force be restricted to policing the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines, that it have no duties in the Suez Canal zone and that British-French forces pull out of the Port Said area immediately.

These demands run counter to stands taken by the British, French and Israel. Israel has made clear she intends to remain in the Gaza strip, seized after the thrust into Egypt's Sinai desert Oct. 23. British-French headquarters in occupied Port Said blamed the Soviet consul there for an "undercurrent of intimidation" in the city. Slips of paper bearing the warning "death to the foreigners who collaborate with the occupiers" appeared under doors of homes in the city's big Italian and Greek colonies.

NEWS INK PRICE HIKE BLAMED ON MID-EAST

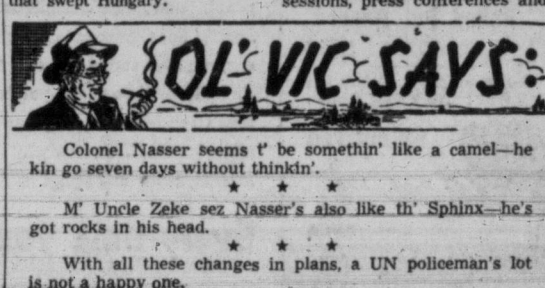

NEW YORK (AP)—Price increases were announced Tuesday for two important ingredients that go into newspaper ink. One of the increases stems directly from the crisis in the Middle East.

J. S. Hart, vice-president of the ink division of J. M. Huber Corp., manufacturer of printing inks, announced an increase of 20 per cent in the cost of news ink oils. News ink oils are made from a type of Middle East crude oil now in short supply, Hart said.

The price of another ingredient, carbon black, has been raised one quarter of a cent a pound, he added.

Wade and Wells Libel Hearing Against Laing Enters Second Day

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for provincial Liberal leader Arthur Laing protested Tuesday against what he termed attempts to "muzzle discussion of public affairs."

Senator J. W. Farris appeared for Mr. Laing at the opening of a libel and slander suit brought against the party leader by Wade and Wells Co. Ltd., a road-building contractor.

The action, which continues today, is being heard in B.C. Supreme Court by an eight-man jury under Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker.

Col. C.C. Merritt, VC, acting for the contractors, said Mr. Laing committed slander when he wrote a letter March 15 about the Cassiar-Stewart highway in northern B.C. to Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who was then agriculture minister. The slander was repeated when Mr. Laing read the letter to party meetings March 16 and 21, Col. Merritt told the court.

IN TESTIMONY

Senator Farris objected when Col. Merritt said the defendant would have to show more than that he believed the statements in the letter were true, because they were presented in testimony before a legislative committee, but would also have to prove their truth by calling witnesses.

Senator Farris said that three government inspectors who testified before the legislative committee last February had "condemned" the Cassiar-Stewart highway.

"Is a public man, in pursuance of his duties, to be muzzled in his duties because he repeats what the records show in a privileged occasion?" Senator Farris asked. "It doesn't seem reasonable."

The senator and Col. Merritt had argued earlier when Senator Farris indicated he would refer to the jury portions from the two volumes of testimony given before the legislative committee.

"And after you've heard that evidence, you'll wonder how Wade and Wells had the gall to come in here," defence counsel said.

Col. Merritt read to the jury Mr. Laing's admission in pre-trial examination that he had read his letter to a Liberal party meeting to assure his supporters that he was taking action, but its effect on Wade and Wells did not occur to him.

The only witness called by Col. Merritt was Daryl George Wedley, 20-year-old Vancouver Sun reporter, who said he had written a report about Mr. Laing's March 21 speech in which the party leader referred to the Cassiar-Stewart road as a "complete loss" and as "nothing more than a rough path for 48 miles."

Doctors said Noel Brien was burned almost beyond hope. Dead are five-month-old Gary Brien and his sister, Yvonne, 2½, only girl in band leader Fred Brien's family. Eight-year-old Fred and five-year-old Carl, the only other children, escaped from the house unharmed.

Woman Scientist Strikes Cop, Molests Dog, Objects to Fine

LONDON (Reuters)—A tropical fish expert married to a noted British scientist was convicted Tuesday of drunkenness, assaulting a policeman and stamping on a dog's tail.

Mrs. Helen Haldane, 41, wife of Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, was fined 10 shillings for drunken behavior and £5 for assaulting the policeman Nov. 5.

The woman biologist, who lectures at London's University College, told the court: "I refuse to pay. I hope to go to India and I will be very much happier if I can tell my friends that I too have been in a British jail."

The court said if the fines are not paid she will go to prison for two months.

Policeman James Oldbury said Mrs. Haldane stamped on his dog's tail, causing it to yelp. Asked why she had done it, she replied: "For fun. That's what dogs' tails are for."

Editor Fined For 'Trial By Newspaper' OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Mayor E. C. Sargent, editor and publisher of the weekly Owen Sound Herald, was fined $1,000 Monday or 60 days in jail for contempt of court in connection with a story in his newspaper which dealt with a murder charge against James Howey Brown.

Mr. Sargent was fined by Mr. Justice Moorhouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who said, "there'll be no trial by newspaper in this province."

The story appeared last Oct. 26, 10 days before the case went before a grand jury. It said the murder charge should be reduced and that the grand jury had power to reduce it. The jury returned a true bill. Brown was subsequently acquitted of the charge.

Brown was charged in the shotgun-slaying last March 19 of Milton Brown, 31, his brother.

U.K. Leaders Claim Suez Move Foiled Russ

LONDON (Reuters)—Two government leaders said Tuesday Britain's intervention in Egypt foiled carefully-planned Soviet "intrigue" to take over the oil-rich Middle East.

Harold Watkinson, minister of transport and civil aviation, told transport authorities that Russia's growing need of oil for vast industrial expansion "alone must make the Middle East a target area for Communist intrigue."

"Some one had to break the perilous cycle of intrigue and intervention. . . I am glad we had the courage to do it," he added.

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—Swaps, fourth highest money winner in American racing history, appeared today to be beating the "100-1 odds" against his recovery from a broken leg suffered during a workout at Garden State Park nearly a month ago.

When the 1955 Kentucky Derby winner later aggravated the work-out injury, a track veterinarian gave him a slim chance for recovery.

However, Dr. Jacques Jenney of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary Hospital said today he planned another periodic X-ray examination—of the four-year-old chestnut colt in a "day or so." And, he said, if the examination shows continued progress the sling which has been supporting Swaps for the past three weeks will be removed shortly.

"We can now more clearly establish the extent to which Soviet arms and intrigue penetrated the area."

"It is increasingly evident that our action, directed as it was to stop fighting, has disturbed carefully-laid Soviet plans."

The secretary told the House of Commons the British-French intervention showed Egypt was already deep in the toils of the Russians, "so far committed by her dealing with the Soviet Union that she could not draw back."

Lennox-Boyd was the first senior minister to speak out on reports the invasion had forestalled a Russian plan to take over the Middle East.

He also attacked Russia's threat to send "volunteers" to aid the Egyptians, and added: "What has been going on in Egypt may be going on in Syria."

"This technique of intervention, first by arms and then by volunteers," he said, "is deeply disturbing in the sense that it attempts to clothe with legality the employment of private armies, whose aim in fact is to lay their hold on the state that they are professing to assist."

Deposed Nagy Refuses to Aid His Successor

BUDAPEST (AP)—Former Premier Imre Nagy denied today in a message sent out from his refuge in the Yugoslav embassy that he was negotiating with the Russian puppet premier Janos Kadar over the political future of Hungary.

"We are not having any talks whatsoever with the present premier," the message said.

Several days ago, it had been reported reliably that Nagy and Kadar, who turned his back on Nagy at the critical moment of the Hungarian rebellion, had been in conflict with each other.

Kadar has been having difficulties with Hungary's rebellious workers, who refuse to return to work under his government which is completely under Soviet domination. Kadar himself indicated he would welcome Nagy's support to shore up his shaky regime.

RESPONSIBILITY DENIED

Nagy's message confirmed the feeling of his followers here that he would refuse to share with Kadar the responsibility for having called Russian tanks and troops down on the rebellious Hungarians on Nov. 4.

The workers in the great industrial combine on Csepel Island laid down their arms today when it became clear that it was fool-hardy to taunt the heavy guns of the Russians pointed at them from every strategic position on the island. However, they have refused to return to work.

The general strike continued in most of the industrial plants in Budapest.

At Csepel, workers voted enthusiastically to continue their strike while Russian troops remain in Budapest and Kadar is in power.

Opposition to Kadar spread even to the regime's own newspaper, Szabad Nep.

Journalists and printers at the paper's printing shop joined the strike and refused to put out today's issue. The newspaper was the only one printed in Budapest since Russian tanks arrived.

Many middle-of-the-road Hungarian politicians are looking to Yugoslavia's President Tito as the only man who might solve the dilemma in which the Kadar government has been rendered impotent by the passive resistance of the rebellious Hungarians and even of die-hard communists.

Food for Only a Week On Vancouver Island

NANAIMO (CP)—Food will be of crucial importance in the evacuation of large numbers of people, civil defence director A. Dawson Gordon told a civil defence meeting in Nanaimo.

Mr. Gordon said there is a week to 10 days' supply of food on the island. Thousands of people coming into the area at one time would exhaust current stocks within a day or two, he said.

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of University of B.C., today called on all levels of government in Canada to meet the national problem of helping universities solve their dilemma of enrollments and finances.

Dr. MacKenzie said the provision of adequate higher education is "an urgent task."

UNIVERSITY GROUP TO DISTRIBUTE GRANTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Conference of Canadian Universities agreed Tuesday to take on the job of distributing federal grants to universities which Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Monday night. The government proposes to double next year from $8,000,000 to $16,000,000.

The decision was made by the executive of the 35-member NCCU, which represents nearly all of Canada's university-level schools.

Two Quebec University Leaders Ready to Accept Federal Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—The heads of two major Quebec universities today suggested there is no reason why universities in that province can't accept federal aid.

The suggestions came first from Msgr. Irene Lussier, rector of the University of Montreal, and then from Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University.

Msgr. Lussier couched his suggestion in cautious language, but it was obvious he personally favors acceptance of federal aid to universities by Quebec institutions, which by order of Premier Duplessis have not taken advantage of it since 1951.

It was the first time any Quebec university head has made such a suggestion since Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the federal government's intention of doubling its grant to universities next year from $8,000,000 to $16,000,000.

Mastermind at Work

TWO MONTHS AGO PREMIER Bennett was given an unquestionable mandate to govern British Columbia. He seems to interpret it now as a mandate to govern Canada.

It is to be doubted, however, that the people of this province, in electing him, expected that he would spend much of his time and most of his genius in obstructing the business of another government in Ottawa.

It is also to be doubted that the people intended that Attorney-General Bonner should devote his talents mainly to what is now called "masterminding" a Social Credit march on Ottawa.

But that program, finally blue-printed in detail at last week's Social Credit convention in Vancouver, will be no surprise to anyone who has followed the career of Mr. Bennett from the beginning. His destination has always been Ottawa. Victoria has been for him nothing more than a preliminary guinea pig in a great new economic experiment which, on examination, turns out to be the old theory of inflation.

The Social Credit convention was chiefly significant for its disregard of Social Credit. No one but a few humble believers in the back of the hall ever mentions nowadays the equations of Major Douglas, the A plus B Theorem, the Just Price and the other shiny gadgets of the original doctrine, and Mr. Bennett never understood or believed them anyway.

For the purposes of practical politics, which Mr. Bennett does understand, something much simpler is required. The only important policy laid down at Vancouver, therefore, is a drastic reduction in federal income tax—hardly a new idea.

The irony of such a proposal, coming from the Bennett Government, seems to escape that Government's attention. (A sense of irony was never its strong point.) It will not escape most of the voters. They know that the Bennett Government, denouncing Ottawa's high taxes, is itself collecting the highest taxes in the nation.

Assuming that taxes should be reduced at this point, surely the unfair tax should be the first target. The Federal income tax is high but it is fair, as only an income tax can be fair. It is strictly based on the ability to pay. It is not paid at all by the poor. The Bennett Government's five per cent sales tax takes little account of the ability to pay. And it is paid by everybody, even the poorest.

In one sense the fiscal position of the Bennett Government and the Federal Government is the same—both are enjoying huge surpluses of revenue. In another it is quite different—the Bennett Government is spending every cent it can lay hands on, thus contributing, within its means, to the inflation which Mr. Bennett calls a mere bogey invented by Mr. Harris; whereas the Federal Government is using its surplus to reduce debt and the total money supply as a sound weapon against inflation.

A reduction in Mr. Bennett's taxes would instantly relieve the public, especially the poor, without increasing the inflationary pressure in the least, since it would mean only that the public would spend the money now spent by the state.

A reduction in the Federal income tax at this time would increase the total demand for goods since the money now saved by the state would be spent by the public.

In economic terms a provincial tax reduction is highly desirable but a Federal tax reduction, at the expense of a budget surplus, has no economic justification under present conditions. Its purpose would be purely political and its result purely inflationary.

Economics of that sort did not concern the Social Credit convention for two reasons.

First, Mr. Bennett does not believe in the danger of inflation and denies its existence at the very moment when the cost-of-living index moves up to a new high.

Second, Social Credit believes in inflation as a deliberate, permanent policy of state. The complex mathematical formula evolved by Major Douglas, an engineer, was hammered into a myth by Mr. Aberhart, a prophet, and now emerges as the oldest device known to politics, from the hands of Mr. Bennett, a politician.

So begins once more, after so many false starts, the march to Ottawa. But the barrier of the eastern Alberta boundary remains unbreached.

Apathy for Civic Office

NOMINATIONS DURING THE next two or three weeks may present to the electors of Victoria a broad choice for aldermen in next month's civic elections.

Up to last week, however, there were fewer aspirants in the field than there were vacancies occurring this year. Four citizens had thrown their hats in the ring for five seats.

It is little wonder that Mayor Percy Scurrell expressed deep concern. He heads the city's multi-million dollar business. A month before polling day he had no assurance that competent people would be available to help him with its administration.

Such a state of apathy is an open invitation to trouble in municipal government. Unless a city can inspire highly qualified citizens to stand for office, it can expect nothing better than a mediocre council. At worst it can be forced to accept aldermen whose capacities and policies are quite unsuited for the job.

Conceivably the time has arrived for the revival of a non-partisan league or some such agency interested in sponsoring candidates of merit.

Converting the Castle Again

ONCE MORE THE SUGGESTION is advanced that Craigdarroch Castle be exploited as a tourist attraction.

The proposal has several points in its favor. The old building is unique. It enjoys a commanding position on the skyline, has a background which can be suitably glamorized for the visitor industry, and contains rooms that lend themselves to the display of antiques. Without too much imagination it might even be equipped with a ghost or two.

But the castle is still the headquarters of the Greater Victoria School Board. Civic authorities understand the necessity of providing accommodation for that body and its servants, even if there are occasional disputes between council and board. A committee has suggested the city provide new quarters for the school board.

This is a splendid idea. Much more suitable facilities could be constructed. But when the issue comes to the point of decision, one minor difficulty may arise.

The board is the Greater Victoria School Board, serving not only Victoria but Oak Bay, Saanich, Esquimalt and View Royal. Who pays for the new building if one is to be constructed? Does Victoria do it alone as a fair exchange for the castle? Or do the other municipalities dib in and meet a moral obligation?

Drive Carefully or Be Fired

FROM CROFTON COMES A REPORT of an interesting experiment to reduce hazards on the highway.

Contractors working on the B.C. Forest Product Ltd. pulp mill project there have announced that they will establish their own road patrols to limit speeding by their truck drivers.

The employers, it was explained, have been asked to tell their drivers that if they speed, they no longer have a job. Whether or not the contractors will enforce that ultimatum remains to be seen.

It does, however, suggest a method by which road safety could be increased if enough employers followed suit.

Truck drivers are not, of course, the chief offenders when it comes to speed. Most of them, it is safe to say, observe reasonable caution. That is part of their job. Moreover, firms are not likely to hire men whose style of driving invites damage to company equipment.

They do, on the other hand, represent a substantial proportion of highway users. If the sanction suggested for them can be extended to other drivers of commercial vehicles, a practical means of discouraging recklessness, or speed, can be applied.

The experiment is worth watching.

The Breath of Life

THE look of Victoria is changing rapidly. Its size is increasing, its population is altering and enlarging. Some call it progress, some call it disaster, some call it merely growth. New things are being added, but many things of value are being lost. And among the casualties in the headlong flight to metropolitan life are most of the smells that used to make this city a place of interest and pleasure for many a roaming boy. They are gone, never to return. Perhaps it is a good thing in some cases, but in others—who can count the cost?

Tobin

At the first mention of city smells most people, of course, think immediately of the inner harbor. The perfume of low tide, however, is not one of those I have in mind. No doubt in the days of the bridge, before the long slough running up past St. Ann's Academy was filled in, the smell was very much more commanding. But it still exists in some measure today. It has not been a casualty of our twentieth century progress.

Fruity Flavor

No, I am thinking of other aromas. I am thinking of the wonderful scent of fruit—grapes, pears, apples, peaches—that pervaded the fruit stores such as Dan Poupard's a few years ago.

The fruit departments of the big stores don't smell that way these days. The old smell was an almost tangible accompaniment of the great bunches of purple grapes, the glowing golden pears, the big boxes of glistening cellophaneless figs and dates, the prickly pineapples.

To lose the perfume of these good things is like taking color and speech from the movies. You get only half the enjoyment, only half the possible beauty.

Another loss is the stables which once dotted the city. The smell of the heavy teams clumping their way into the great barn that has now become the Coach Lines depot was a joy to the young lads watching them. And the incense of other stables where horses were shod—there was a last survivor at the corner of Broad and Pandora until it became a garage a few years ago—was unmatched by all the exotic scents of the East.

On the Hoof

The thin smoke curled up from the hoof clapped between the stableman's knees as he prepared it for the shoe. The glossy coat of the draught horse, the manure in the stalls, the oiled harness—what boy's nose did not wrinkle in delight. Youngsters would walk time of the East.

and time again past that corner, perhaps blocks out of their way, just to catch a whiff of it.

Another favored memory is the clean, washed smell of summer rain on the bone-dry wooden blocks that paved most of the downtown streets. Each big drop, as it splashed on the roadway, sent up a tantalizing smell of sun-dried wood and hot dust. The rain was a catalyst that brought it out, wetting the air so the smell could be carried to the nose. But that is past now. Modern pavement doesn't react the same.

Smoke Pall

There were some smells too, which were beautiful but dangerous. It is years now since I smelled the heavy smoke of huge forest fires—smoke which many a summer hung over the whole city. It would be blown from the Sooke hills where the fires raged, carrying on its pungent breath a suggestion of far-off disaster and crisis, but with a strange attractiveness too, as though the beauty of all the forest had been vaporized into one huge costly cloud.

On hot summer days, with a west wind, would come the smell of the sawmills. The sun seemed to bake the essence out of the fir planks and waft it cityward, along with an occasional rich steamy gust from the drying kilns.

In the city, stores seemed to have more and better smells in the old and not-so-old days. Like the fruit places, the feed stores seemed to give out a more zestful, tangy perfume from baled hay and sacked grain. Here and there in the town were saddle shops where the passerby could breathe an appreciative lungful of rich leathery air.

Like Music

The drygoods stores were more drygoodsy than they are now. Their open doors sent out a silk-cotton-wool aroma impossible to describe, but as clear in memory as yesterday's bouquet.

But most wonderful of all, were visits to some country store such as Captain Throu's at Sooke. Here a boy's nose was assailed by a veritable symphony of delightful smells, from liquorice whips to kerosene, from ginger snaps to work boots. Smell on smell, from a thousand sources, they added 'their separate olfactory notes' to the final glorious aromatic chord, to be sniffed and breathed and absorbed to its ultimate sweet echo.

Such delights do not seem to exist any more. A world of cellophane, cans, sealed packaging and glass cases has no place for smells. But they linger in the memory, to be recalled almost physically at times, part and parcel of a good life which progress and improvement have relegated to the past—a past when "life" was a noun which went with the verb "to live."

DENNIS THE MENACE

'AM I THE FATHER OF THAT LITTLE WHAT?!!'

From Our Files

Nov. 14, 1896—Reports from Sooke are that the rivers are running at a tremendous rate. Two bridges were washed away and traffic has been suspended. Three hundred yards of telegraph wire were carried away.

Nov. 14, 1916—The businessmen's excursion to points up the Island left the E & N station at 8.30 this morning. The platform was at that time white with frost and the breath froze as it encountered the air.

Nov. 14, 1936—The destroyers Crescent and Cygnet, purchased from Great Britain, will be taken over from the British navy by the Canadian government in April. One of them will be stationed at Esquimalt.

As Our Readers See It

Slums

This letter is sent in on behalf of the teenage citizens in our district. Yesterday they asked, "Do we live in the slums?" No, my young friends, you do not. The homes you live in are some of the best cared-for—inside and out—in the city of Victoria.

In this location are some of the best people and the children—the best behaved—Halloween or any other time.

The real slums are probably along the city-owned seashore beaches where not the least attention is given to human needs.

Not far from the city limits there is a bay with signs up that it is dangerous to health to swim or play there. Tourists can see the filth floating on the driftwood from an outlet sewage pipe.

Perhaps when you young folks grow up and take over local government you will make the absent financial business gentlemen pay their share of taxes, so local improvements can be made.

The worthy professor was quite in order to call attention to future requirements. But he forgot to mention the ancient firetrap where our efficient firefighters have their headquarters.

CHARLES CLARKE,
515 Springfield Avenue.

Keep It Short

We periodically see and hear appeals to gabby telephone subscribers to remember that they are not the only people paying for the use of a telephone line. Judging by the remarks of my friends and the marathon conversations of a lady on my four-party line—I had to wait 20 minutes the other evening to try and contact a doctor while she caught up on the bridge-table gossip—these appeals are a complete waste of time.

Couldn't the telephone company fit a gadget, at least to four-party lines, that automatically cuts the conversation off after 10 minutes? That is a reasonable length of time to say what one has to say. There could be a warning buzzer to give the parties time to wind up the conversation.

"FOUR-PARTY LINER."

Prayer in the UN

In your Nov. 8 paper Mr. W. E. Wemp, Secretary-General of the British Israel World Federation says, among other things, "The United Nations Organization is absolutely Godless. Never once has it offered up a word of prayer"...

I disagree with this statement, and in so doing would quote from a report given at the Supreme Convention last year by our accredited observer for P.E.O. at the United Nations.

"From all over the world there have come to the United Nations evidence of the desire of people that prayer plays an important part in U.N. deliberations. One result of this desire is seen in the decision to open and close General Assembly sessions with a moment of silence for prayer and meditation. Men and women of many faiths are involved in the U.N. The basis of Christianity is love, not compulsion. We can not expect them to observe religious practices other than their own—hence the reason for silent prayer."

The feature of the United Nations that has brought more letters from all over the world than anything else, is the smallest room in the United Nations General Assembly Building, the Meditation Room. In less than two years that a record has been kept, more than 200,000 men and women from nearly all the great religions of the world have visited the Meditation Room. A week long vigil of prayer was held in this room during United Nations week in October, 1954. For the first time, silence in the room was broken by ten minute prayers audibly offered by representatives of different faiths.

The New Court House

One thing we should observe in the choice of a new Court House site, in this 'utilitarian' era, is perspective!

May we remember 'Victoria is the Capital City and we are building for posterity as well as for today. And we want something substantial and entirely representative of the great people we are. We want and need something we can see, with justice in our hearts, something we surround and uphold from deep within ourselves. We want a monumental edifice!

Surely the site upon Church Hill is both proper and inspiring. No misdirection can occur here. And the quality of our consideration will in no sense be strained.

Omnia mutantur, nos et mutamur in illis.

'Perniciously Misleading'

Your correspondent, H. R. Jackson deliberately or through absolute ignorance attempts to perniciously mislead your readers in stating that I, as Reeve, introduced party politics in our municipal affairs in Saanich.

He glibly writes about smearing. I now invite him to be more decisively explicit and show wherein I have displayed political bias or party politics at any time during my past year as Reeve of Saanich.

ARTHUR J. R. ASH,

The Anglo-Egyptian Treaty

THE Anglo-Egyptian treaty of October 1, 1936, has been mentioned frequently since President Nasser precipitated an international crisis by seizing the Suez Canal. The treaty replaced the pact of 1936 and was to stand for seven years (until 1961). In answer to the request of several readers, the terms of the treaty are here set forth:

The British garrison of 80,000 men was to be evacuated from the Suez zone by stages during the next 20 months.

Britain retained permission to re-occupy and operate the Suez military base if an outside power attacked Egypt, Turkey, Iraq, Jordan, Libya, Lebanon, Syria, Saudi Arabia or Yemen during the next seven years. Egypt and Britain would consult with each other if any of these states was threatened with invasion, regardless of whether or not there had been provocation. (Although not formalized, it was understood that "outside power" meant Russia.)

Britain received permission to keep a force of 1,200 civilian technicians as caretakers of defence installations in the Canal zone. Certain supply and ammunition depots were to remain in British control. Egypt received 10 airfields and the Suez-Cairo pipeline.

The Suez canal was recognized to be a part of Egypt, but Britain and Egypt promised to uphold freedom of navigation under the Constantinople convention of 1888.

FROM WASHINGTON By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

Russian Feet in the Mire

THE Hungarian people may be drowned in their own brave blood with nothing being done to help them by those administration leaders who claimed four years ago, that disbelief in "liberation" was a sign of moral rot.

The Soviet action in Hungary is also a terrible defeat for the Soviet Union. This was an action, one can be fairly sure, that the Soviet leaders wished to avoid. Unhappily, all concessions made by imperial powers to their dependencies seem always to be limited by the inevitable rule of "too little and too late."

Since last spring, Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia had been warning Khrushchev, Bulganin and company that the Russian position in Hungary was untenable, and that something radical must be done about it.

But nothing radical was done. On the contrary, the Soviets, like other imperial powers before them, desperately tried to prolong a surely controllable and familiar colonial situation.

Popular Feeling

That was the meaning of the desperate Soviet effort to keep Matyas Rakosi in power. That was the meaning, too, of the effort to promote Rakosi's stooge Erno Gero, which was made by the Hungarian specialists in the Soviet Presidium, Anastas Mikoyan and Mikhail Suslov, when Rakosi's fall became inevitable.

That was the meaning, finally, of the wild effort by these same men to get a government in which Erno Gero had at least a little remaining leverage, when Hungarian popular feeling forced the choice of Imre Nagy as Prime Minister.

It is important to recall these episodes of past history because they prove that Soviet judgment, like other brands of governmental judgment, can be extremely fallible.

It can be said on highest authority that the Soviet leaders told Marshal Tito, during his visit to Yalta, that they were strongly opposed to the kind of thing that has now happened in Hungary. It can be said, further, that in Hungary the Soviets would have accepted, reluctantly but on the whole resignedly, the kind of thing that has happened in Poland.

But this was not what happened in Hungary. Instead, partly because of the Soviet delaying tactics and partly because there was no Hungarian Gomulka, there was an explosion at Budapest.

The record shows that the Soviet stooge, Erno Gero, who was reportedly—and deservedly—murdered thereafter, actually provoked the explosion on his own initiative. He wanted Russia's military intervention as the only way to save his own skin.

The result was the hideous Hungary tragedy—so far in three acts. On this tragedy the curtain has not yet fallen as these words are written. What the end will be cannot be known now, although it should be known rather soon. What can be known already, is only the extreme ugliness of the choice facing the Soviet leadership.

Alternatives

In brief, if the Soviets are not prepared to abandon the Hungarians absolutely to their own devices—and this is why they have shed so much blood in Budapest—they have only two other alternatives. One alternative is to attempt a synthetic Hungarian imitation of the Gomulka government in Poland. The other is to rule Hungary by naked force of Russian arms for an indefinite period.

In Hungarian terms, the first of these alternatives is fantastically difficult and risky.

The second is not locally difficult or risky, but it has its own built-in penalties. It means the weakening and probably the end of the new relationship with Marshal Tito. It means the weakening and probably the end of Soviet influence in the Western Communist parties.

It demands the military repression of the independent Polish Communist regime, with all the familiar hair-raising risks which this may entail. And in the long run, it also demands the restoration of what may be called neo-Stalinism in the Soviet Union proper.

At the moment, the Soviet leadership seems to be inclining towards the second alternative. The pressure campaign, designed to subvert Poland's newly-won independence, began in full force some days ago. The question about this alternative is not really what the United Nations may say about it, but what the Russian people may say about the return of Stalinism. Their answer will be awaited with fear in the Kremlin.

Kinsmen Bingo Nets $20,000 For Charity

About $20,000 for charity work has been raised by Victoria Kinsmen Club in four large-scale bingo games this year, bingo committee treasurer Gordon Brown has reported.

Club president Stan Mossop said the figure is accurate to within $400 or $500, depending on accounts still to be settled.

Of the total, which is expected to reach about $25,000 after the fifth bingo session in Memorial Arena Saturday night, 80 per cent will be applied to a single big charity, "something which will do the most citizens the most good," the president said.

No decision on what the project will be has been reached by the club. A general meeting Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in Pacific Club likely will consider alternatives, with the decision to follow the forthcoming game.

The 20 per cent remainder will be used for small appeals to the club, said Mr. Mossop. Prizes valued at $9,000 will be offered at Saturday's game.

CCC 'Workshop' Set for Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A one-day Canadian Chamber of Commerce "workshop" will be held here Nov. 29 for members of Vancouver Island chambers.

The workshop program has been designed by the Canadian chamber to make local chambers and boards of trade more effective forces for community growth and improvement.

The session here will include open discussion of local and national problems, and "know-how" sessions on promotion and development of retailing, tourism, industry and agriculture.

The Nanaimo and B.C. chambers will help the national organization in arranging the workshop.

W. C. SOLWAY, SCOUT WORKER, DIES AT 78

VANCOUVER (CP)—Funeral services will be held here today for W. C. (Bill) Solway, 78, at different times Boy Scout executive commissioner for both B.C. and Alberta, who died in Vancouver Sunday.

"Bill" Solway was well known on Vancouver Island having conducted scout training courses at Deep Cove, Crofton and Nanaimo.

He held a lay reader's licence in the Anglican Church and had conducted services in Victoria churches.

CHARLES RAKISH, MINUS TOOTH

Prince Celebrates Eighth Birthday

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles, heir to the throne, celebrated his eighth birthday today.

Queen Elizabeth's mop-haired little son, whose smile has been somewhat rakish lately since he lost a front tooth, played host to 10 of his young pals at an advance afternoon tea party at Buckingham Palace Tuesday.

Princess Anne, at six more lady-like every day, helped to pass the cake, a special iced one made by the palace chef.

After tea, Charles and his guests watched a movie.

QUEEN MISSES PART — The Queen missed the earlier part of the party. She had been to Butler's Wharf, near the Tower of London, to wish good luck to the Commonwealth Antarctic expedition ship, the Magda Dan. But she managed to return to the palace to join in some of the fun.

It was one of the smallest birthday gatherings the prince ever has had. He was permitted to invite boys from the weekly gym class he attends in Chelsea, not far from the palace.

Now that he is entering his ninth year, newspapers have been filling columns with advice to the royal couple on how to educate their son. Some plump for the leading English public (private) school—Eton—while others urge something more democratic—such as a lesser public school.

But a palace spokesman said today that the Queen is not contemplating any change in her son's education.

CANADIAN NAMED — Election of G. MacDonald Young, of Montreal, as vice-president of the American Society for Metals was announced today. Mr. Young is the first Canadian to hold an executive office in world's largest metals engineering society. Born in Saskatoon, he is technical director of Aluminum Co. of Canada, Ltd. Optimist Members Saluted On Their Own Special Week Optimist Week is being observed this week by 1,200 Optimist clubs around the world.

The week was proclaimed open here by Mayor Percy Scragg.

"I urge every citizen to join in this observance and salute each member of Optimist International for being what all of us should always be—a friend of the boy," he said.

"The Optimist Club of Victoria has, by its many and important activities, benefiting the youth of our community, lived up to the letter of the Optimist Week theme: 'Every boy needs a man's helping hand.'"

Last year Optimist International helped more than 1,000,000 boys at a cost of more than $2,264,000.

Europe Trade Plan Alarms St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed fear Tuesday night that Britain's plan to join with Western Europe in a "partial free trade area" may cause trouble for Canadian exports and weaken Canada's trade links with Europe.

Canada would welcome the scheme, he said, if Britain and her planned European partners not only remove trade barriers among themselves but also those they may have against Canada and other non-European countries.

WANT COMPETITIVE TRADE

This development of competitive multilateral trade, he added in a statement issued here, is the "over-riding objective of the Canadian government and of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

The U.K. plan is to link up with France, Germany, Italy and other West European countries in the development of a common mass market for their goods. Tariffs among the partners would be reduced gradually. Excluded from this scheme would be food, feeds, beverages and tobacco. Thus Canadian exports to Europe of these goods would not be affected.

My Dad, WALT DISNEY

At last! The intimate story of America's most beloved—yet least known—genius, told by his daughter, Diane.

Now, in this week's Saturday Evening Post, you can read the whole rags-to-riches story as Disney himself told it to his daughter! Follow him from his early failures in Kansas City to his triumphs as Top Academy Award winner of all time. Read the stories behind his smash movies and astonishing success in TV!

Go right into his home—find out what he is like as a father and husband—his unusual attitude toward money—or even the lack of it—that has brought him happiness and contentment!

Disney's daughter reveals:

- Why, though his pictures have made millions, Disney is usually strapped for cash.
- Why Diane didn't know what her dad really did until she was six.
- The reason he borrowed on his life insurance to start the $15,000,000 Disneyland Park.
- The unique appeal The Mickey Mouse Club and The Mouseketeers have for millions of children.
- How a nervous breakdown changed his outlook on life—even brought him his greatest treasure.
- The exciting plans he has for future Disney projects—such as a space-navigation series.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Oils Lead Plunge, Investors Wary

Activity slowed down considerably on the Toronto stock market today as investors once again stayed clear of the trading floor.

Refining oils, which supplied the market with strong gains in the last few sessions, were the downward leaders among the industrials. Papers, steels and utilities also sank lower. These sections were the advancing leaders Tuesday.

Prices also declined on the New York market today. Turnover was fairly active as pivotal stocks fell from fractions to around two points. The situation in the Middle East caused tension and uncertainty in Wall Street, brokers said.

At Toronto International Paper, which announced a lower net profit for nine months earlier today, lost 2 1/2 points and Powell River was down 1 1/2. Page-Hersey, McColl, Regent, Imperial Bank, Chrysler, Aluminum and MacMillan and Bloedel B were off between one and two points. Gains were mostly confined to fractions.

Western oils had declines ranging to 15 cents and gains as high as 20 cents.

AT NEW YORK McIntyre and Granby Mining were higher among Canadian issues. Aluminum Ltd., Hudson Bay Mining and Development, and Walker-Gooderham were lower.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange carried a steady to lower trend into quiet afternoon industrial trading today. Changes were mainly fractional but a few issues moved over a point.

AT LONDON the recent downward drift on the Stock Exchange today developed into a more definite lower trend. International uncertainties continued to dominate the market.

Domestic and colonial issues were on the dull side. Dollar stocks were mixed, reflecting the overnight trend on Wall Street.

Early steadiness in industrials gave way to widespread falls. Speculative support induced firmness in Kaffirs at the outset but prices later were a shade off in prices.

Coppers showed good gains but were also below the best. Leading oils tended to ease with British Petroleum again leading the decline. Western hemisphere oils, however, continued to meet support, especially Ultramar.

AT VANCOUVER a fairly active market saw a downward trend in prices. Cowichan Copper sold 6,000 between $1.50 and $1.55. Trojan dropped to 27 on a sale of 8,000.

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Increased activity in the Middle East reflected nervousness on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Some traders stood on the sidelines to await further developments.

Oats and barley had routine business under domestic shipper support. An export sale of one cargo of 420,000 bushels of barley to Japan did not reflect in trade.

Rye prices were firm and reports were received that West Germany has made inquiries into the purchase of Canadian rye, but confirmation was still lacking.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all down % cent except Nos. 3 and 4 Northern and the feed grades which were up % cent.

Yule Theme Postage Stamps Pose Problem

By JACK VAN DUZEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Federal post-office officials are considering the idea of Christmas-theme stamps, but it's a touchy subject.

Post office officials can't say when, if ever, they will appear. They are faced with the problem of choosing a theme that will please everyone.

"In countries of predominantly one religion the religious theme wouldn't be any problem," says L. J. Mills, the man largely responsible for the issuing of new stamps in Canada.

"In France, for example, religious stamps are not uncommon."

Overhauling even this problem is the size of stamps.

"It's difficult to get a suitable design that can be reduced to stamp size and still tell a story."

However, Mr. Mills, director of financial services in the post office department, says the idea has not been dropped.

"The matter has been given very serious thought and is still very much an active project."

Supporters of the all-faith "put-Christ-back-into-Christmas" crusade have urged the introduction of a Canadian stamp depicting the holy season.

Mr. Mills, an Anglican who personally thinks it's a "wonderful idea," said it is a matter of hitting on a theme that will please everybody.

Scenes usually associated with Christmas, such as Joseph and Mary with Christ in the manger, or shepherds with their flocks, are usually too complicated to bring down to stamp size and still be effective.

In reply to a request for such stamps from a group in Medicine Hat, Alta., Postmaster-General Lapointe earlier this year wrote:

"... A postage stamp design, to be effective, must be simple and uncluttered in order that it may give a clear and unmistakable message without close scrutiny."

The post office department is looking for such a design—something that would be immediately recognizable on the thousands of stamps used every year by people sending out Christmas cards.

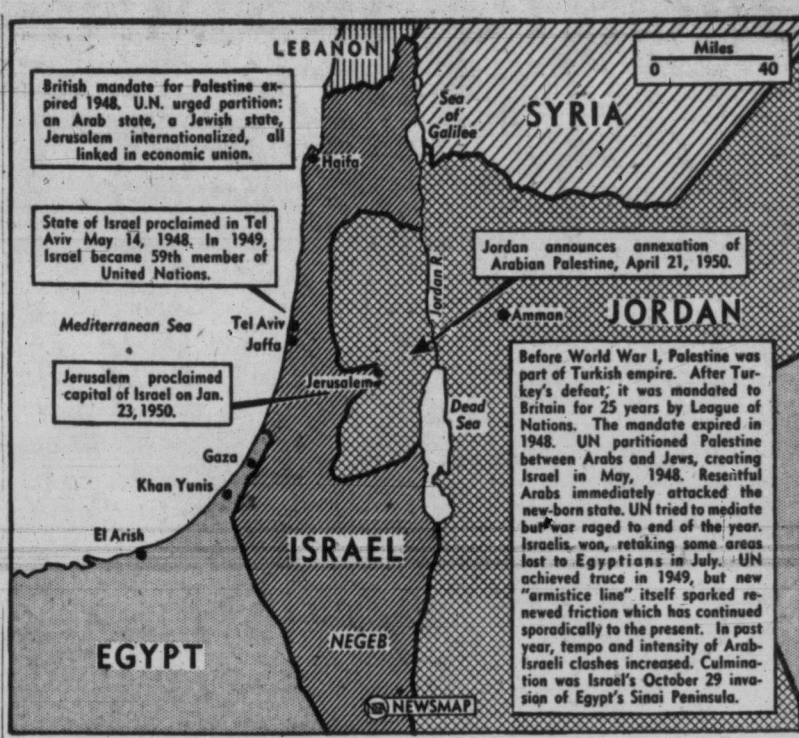

The post office has never issued a stamp with a religious theme and the experts are taking their time picking a suitable design.

NOT 'GROWN UP' ENOUGH

Canada-Loving Britons Ired At Fellow Countrywoman's View

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Is Canada sufficiently "grown up" to attract sophisticated emigrants from Britain? Most people seem to think so.

One emphatic exception is Margaret E. Naylor, an English woman who recently spent more than a year in Canada. Writing to The Daily Telegraph, she says acerbically that if Canada really wants British people, it's time she grew up.

Miss Naylor, now living in London, says medical treatment is too costly, cultural amenities too few and public transport poor. Only 10 per cent of radio programs are bearable, and probably "laced with nauseating advertisements."

DRIVING DANGEROUS

Some of the scenery may be fetching, but many lakes are privately owned and inaccessible. Driving a car is dangerous because driving standards are low.

Miss Naylor's blast produces enraged replies from Britons who feel differently. Mrs. Joan M. Brown, a 42-year-old aerodynamicist, says a metropolis such as London should be compared with New York, not with Toronto or Montreal. A better comparison would be between the Canadian cities and Birmingham or Manchester.

Mrs. Brown lived with her husband for two years in Smith's Falls, Ont., and she writes, "my great wish is to be able to return to live in Canada permanently."

Another Englishwoman, Dorothy Galbraith, writes that while there may be no government-run health service as in Britain, Canadian doctors and nurses are excellent and their charges not exorbitant. She says she agrees that radio programs in Canada are slightly inferior to those here, but Canadians "usually have such wonderful sets that they can tune in to many more stations than we can."

ENJOYS CANADA

Miss Galbraith adds that she is a Londoner born and bred, used to having theatres, concert halls and art galleries just around the corner, but this had not prevented her from enjoying Canadian life, both in a city and "up country" for two wonderful years.

Alan Morrell, a London man who remembers a "happy period of service" in Canada during the Second World War, writes to ask where Miss Naylor could find many theatres outside Britain's large cities. As for lakes and rivers, he says, "there are in Canada miles of them where anybody can fish or shoot on payment of a small licence fee, and on condition that he obeys the game preservation laws."

A British exchange teacher, M. E. Roberts, says that Miss Naylor's complaints remind one of the scholar midway through school who was expected to obtain a university degree. "Let us not, as an old country, be jealous of youth," he writes. For himself, he had enjoyed the "vivacity and generosity" of Canada both in work and play.

So far, nobody has written to support Miss Naylor's views.

Linemen Basil Way Into Grid Spotlight

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Old Man Winter may have been trying to lull us into a sense of false security with the display of sunshine he put on Tuesday, but the ruthless old gent is undoubtedly planning to dish up a good number of rugged days before this deer-hunting season passes into memory.

And with the rough weather of late November that brings shorter hours of daylight and poorer visibility, always comes an increased danger of getting lost in the woods.

The danger of getting lost is a constant companion of those who follow the game trails. Every year we hear of search parties being organized to look for hunters who have failed to return from a trip, and often we learn that some of those searches could have been avoided had the hunters concerned taken proper precautions before starting out.

Actually, there should be no shame attached to being lost. It has happened to some of the finest woodsmen. The shame should be reserved for those who go into the bush without being prepared.

Although the responsibility of coming out of the woods safely rests squarely on the shoulders of the individual who goes in, he is not the only one to suffer if he doesn't return on schedule. Survival is not always a personal thing. It can involve many people and organizations, sometimes whole communities.

Search Starts on Small Scale

When a man fails to return from a hunting trip, rescue attempts are usually started on a small scale by his hunting companions and friends. If they are unsuccessful, the search soon grows into a full-scale operation, involving game wardens, police, outdoor organizations and volunteers.

Among the groups usually assisting searches in this area are the South Vancouver Island Rangers, who have trained their numbers in locating lost hunters. But the rangers must be numbered with the volunteers who willingly join in a battle to save the life of a man most have never seen, taking time off from their regular jobs and exposing themselves to many of the dangers which may have trapped the hunter. And behind them leave families who now worry about the safety of the rescuers as others worry about the man they seek.

Thus, survival is not a personal affair. Police and game department procedures are interrupted, money is spent on organizing a search, and many dollars are trimmed from pay cheques of the volunteers.

None of the searchers mind the hardships if their efforts help in the rescue of an injured man or a hunter trapped in the bush through no fault of his own. Few are pleased if it is learned that the man became lost through carelessness.

There is a vast difference between having to spend a night in the woods and being lost. It is always possible that by following an animal late in the evening or through a bit of confusion, a man may not be able to get back to his car before dark. Yet there is seldom an excuse for becoming hopelessly lost.

Three Basic Survival Items

Reams have been written on how to travel safely in the woods. Wise hunters already know what precautions to take. The foolish ones—the ones who say, "It can't happen to me"—will learn only after they have experienced the panic that can strike the unprepared.

The wise hunter will always carry the three basic survival items—matches in a waterproof container, a sturdy knife and a good compass. And he'll keep a cool head in an emergency, for panic can rob a man of energy and thinking ability and increase his chances of injury.

He'll make mental notes of his route while he hunts and know what general direction to travel on his return. If he should have to spend a night in the woods, he will try to select a sheltered place with a readily-available supply of firewood before darkness sets in.

The matches will start the necessary fire; the knife will provide firewood and have many other uses; the compass is the one safety tool that can be counted on to lead him out of the woods in the morning with a minimum of effort.

If unable to travel further, or actually lost, he'll keep the fire going to help direct searches and stay where he is, knowing that with a fire he can survive several days without food. He knows that help will eventually reach him, provided he remains in condition to help his rescuers, and that his experience will soon become only a memory.

For the foolish hunter who heads into unfamiliar country without a compass and unprepared to spend a November night in the woods, the story could have a less pleasant ending.

THE HAGEN STORY

Chances I Took Often Paid Off

EDMONTON (CP)—Judging by the hard-hitting, tight defensive play in the first two games of the western football final, the linemen may make the difference Saturday night in the deciding game of the best-of-three series.

Football observers who watched the first two games of the Edmonton Eskimos-Saskatchewan Roughriders playoff, are fairly well unanimous in stating they haven't seen such bashing line play in several seasons.

Surprisingly, serious injuries have not been suffered by the linemen of either club, although a number have been slowed up with charley horses. Every linemen can show a lot of battle bruises.

The consensus, including opinions of coaches Frank Ivy of Edmonton and Frank Filchok of Saskatchewan and their line stalwarts, is that there will be no let-up for the third game.

It's do or die for both clubs Saturday when they meet at Clarke Stadium in Edmonton for the deciding contest, a game that will either give the defending Grey Cup champion Eskimos a third straight trip to the Canadian final or send Roughriders into the final for the first time since 1951.

Among key names on the Eskimo side in the first two games have been those of Frank Anderson, offensive guard and defensive end who consistently crashed through to rush Frank Tripucka's passing attempts; tackle Roger Nelson, who threw a big block Monday night to let Johnny Bright crash over for a touchdown; rookie Johnny Tatum, offensive centre, defensive linebacker and holler guy; and Art Walker, two-way guard, who plays nearly 60 minutes a game.

For Saskatchewan, the names of centres Mel Beckett and John Wozniak, tackles Martin Ruby and Paul Anderson and guard Ray Synyak have stood out among the players who played the holes against Eskimo runners and giving Tripucka passing protection.

All of these have taken their lumps, with Nelson nursing a charley horse, Anderson a bruised back, Beckett a sore leg and others various lesser ailments.

At closer range I saw Al Watrous, Mike Brady, Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Willie Klein and Bill Mehrlorn sitting around on the floor leaning back against the lockers. Before them a low, bench was plentifully supplied with liquid refreshments. They pretended to ignore me.

"Let me take Hagen this year," Leo pleaded loudly. "Oh, no!" Al Watrous yelled. "This is my year!"

The needling went round and round. I walked past the bench, hesitated until they were quiet. Then as though I'd heard nothing they said, I turned and pointed to each one individually.

"I wonder," I said slowly, "which one . . . of you . . . fellows . . . will be . . . second . . . this year!"

Then I followed my coterie around the corner to my own locker. Once there, I dropped my coat and went back to join the fellows and get in on the fun.

MANY CANDIDATES BARRED

Victoria Again Will Be Run By 'Businessman's Council'

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria is faced with another "businessman's council" in 1957. At least three factors make it all but impossible for anyone but a well-to-do businessman or retired person, or a housewife to run for council in Victoria today.

Perhaps the city is operated better by men trained in business. But the question in the minds of many city hall observers is: Is it fair to the many other social groups that comprise the citizens of Victoria?

The three prime evils, according to many intelligent would-be candidates, are still property qualifications, day meetings of council and committees, and restrictions which apply to teachers. Two of these are laid down in special sections of the Municipal Act and apply almost to Victoria alone. The day meetings are the responsibility of council, and could be altered if council favored such action.

The property qualification says no one can run for council unless his real property is more than 50 per cent clear of debt. He must have $500 invested in real property above and beyond the owed amount of any registered mortgage.

Elsewhere in B.C. he need only be registered owner of property over $500 value. The Act is under consideration and may be changed next year to give Victorians the same privileges but it will not affect this year's election.

TEACHERS BARRED

The same special section of the act says no school board employee may run for civic office. This has been amended for the rest of B.C., and Saanich has its first teacher candidate this year. But in Victoria he is still ruled out.

Even if a teacher were permitted to run for office, his hours of work would make council attendance impossible. In this the teacher shares the same difficulty as most wage and salary workers. Low and medium income groups, teachers, tradesmen, skilled workers and even young professional people just starting careers are all affected by these restrictions and are unlikely to seek office.

An alderman's remuneration is $1,084 a year. But the man who earns $2 an hour would lose $300 at least from his annual job income if he took time off for all council and committee meetings.

ONE LACKING

Mayor Percy Surraha has called for more candidates. There are five vacancies and so far four candidates, Ald. Austin Curtis, Elmer D. McEwen, Elgin Nesh and Hugh Ramsay.

Aldermen Don Smith, Robert Macmillan and Arthur Dowell haven't announced whether they will run again. But there is speculation that Ald. Smith, recently elected as an MLA, may decide his legislative duties will be sufficient. Ald. Dowell may follow the course of Ald. W. F. Pinfold who has dropped out (in mid-term) as the two aldermen were closely allied.

Nominations are less than a month away. Last year first candidates came forward in August.

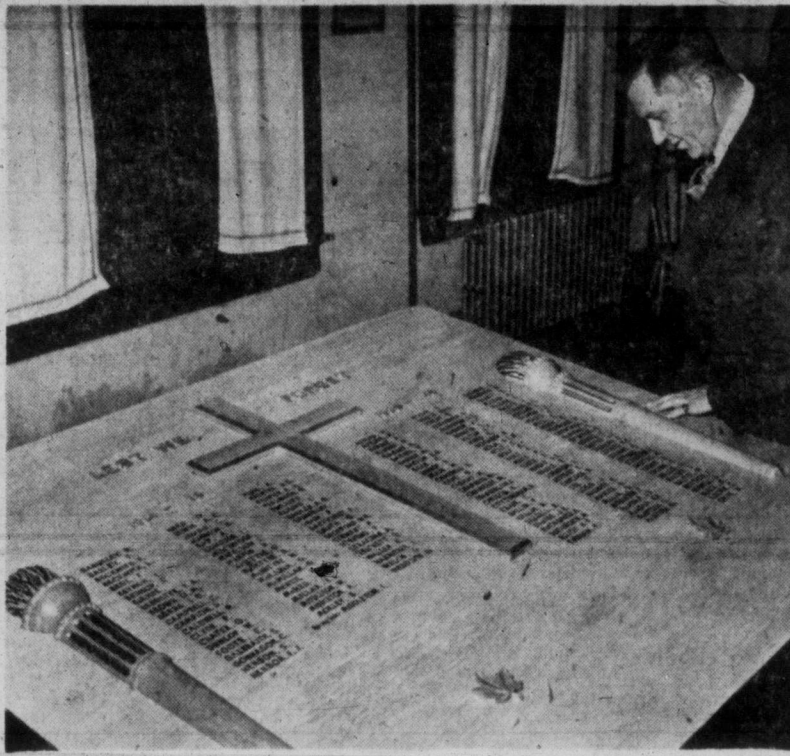

Some city hall officials believe there can never be a flood of candidates, representative of all sectors of public life, until some of these restrictions are lifted and the same measure of democracy which prevails throughout the rest of B.C. prevails in Victoria.

Ex-Winnipeg Newsman Dies at Detroit

DETROIT (CP)—Marshall B. Walker, former Winnipeg newspaper man who was editor of the Detroit Times for more than 35 years, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 64.

Walker had been news editor of The Times since he joined it in 1920. A native of Michigan, he worked on the Winnipeg Tribune before joining The Times.

He is survived by his widow, three sons and a daughter.

Canada Will Introduce Radar On Both Airways, Airports

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association was told here that Canada will be the first country to have radar-equipped airways and airports by 1959 or 1960.

John Gallagher of Toronto, a Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot, said a radar system should be in operation at all Canadian airports by 1959 or 1960.

"The whole world will look to us for the safest and most effective air traffic control system in the world," he told the 30 delegates representing 600 pilots who fly for TCA and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Presenting a report from the association's flight safety branch, Mr. Gallagher added that many "accidents resulting from pilot errors would be prevented if pilots knew more about their minds and bodies."

He told the delegates, attending a three-day convention, that pilots will start receiving monthly bulletins on the latest medical developments pertaining to flying.

Few pilots know it requires more oxygen to see at night than in the daytime, he said. Smoking, fatigue and alcohol cut into the oxygen supply.

Nelson's Signal At Trafalgar Legend or Fact?

LONDON (Reuters)—A former Royal Navy man is trying to explode one of the most cherished anecdotes in British history—Admiral Horatio Nelson's message to the British fleet before the Battle of Trafalgar.

Ernest Walder, 76, says Nelson never signalled his fleet: "England expects every man will do his duty."

Walder, a former signalman, did not jump to conclusions. He made the announcement after 59 years of research.

"I am convinced the signal is a legend," he said. Using the signal methods used in 1805, the year of the battle, "It would have taken an hour to send and still longer to pass round the fleet."

"In any case it could not have been seen. What admiral is going to waste that much time when going into battle?"

But the present commanding officer of Nelson's ship, the Victory, now a dockside museum piece, insists that the signal was made, "according to records." It was "mentioned in all the narratives of the battle."

$40,490 Organ Reconstruction Starts at Christ Church Next Year

Reconstruction and expansion of the Christ Church Cathedral organ, costing $40,490, will begin next year, the Cathedral Chapter announced Tuesday.

The four or five-month job of rebuilding the 84-year-old organ has been given to the British firm of Hill & Son, Norman and Beard.

They will require five miles of copper wire and cable, five or six new sound boards, a new blowing apparatus and console. The finished organ will be "one of the finest in Canada," said cathedral organist Graham Steed.

"It will play every kind of organ music and be a fine accompanying instrument for the very large crowds we get in the cathedral."

"The organ is on its last legs in its present stage," he said. Moving parts are worn out.

Alberta's Sacred Principles Defended

SASKATOON (CP) — The Alberta government is motivated by Social Credit principles at all times and the Social Credit party is the only one with a future, says Hon. Fred C. Colborne, minister without portfolio in the Alberta cabinet.

Addressing the Saskatchewan Social Credit League convention Tuesday, Mr. Colborne said the Alberta administration is not just a good orthodox government as claimed by opposition groups, but is distinctly a Social Credit government operated under a different policy to orthodox administrations.

He said Social Credit disagrees in two ways with the orthodox financial system under which other governments operated. They functioned on debt and Social Credit did not believe debt was necessary.

Social Credit also quarrelled with the way other governments use provincial and national debts. It was the Social Credit belief that debt should not be incurred unless for capital work that could not be financed out of current revenues. Then, it should only be on a re-irement basis so that debt could be eliminated as soon as possible. Mr. Colborne said that when a Social Credit government was formed in Alberta it took over a provincial debt of $167,000,000 with 51 cents of every tax dollar going to pay interest. He called it a "great and important decision" when the government adopted a pay-as-you-go program.

Alberta now had a debt of $82,500,000 which was not costing as much in interest as the province was receiving in dividends from $122,000,000 in investments. In addition the province had $189,000,000 on loan to municipalities and other rural and urban groups in Alberta.

Alberta therefore had a net credit position of nearly $230,000,000 at the end of September this year, he said.

Her first stop — the bank

When Mrs. Wilson planned to go shopping, her husband Tom said: "Meet you at the bank."

It was a natural thing to say, for going to the bank is just a part of everyday life.

In the bank, Mrs. Wilson noticed Miss Ellis the schoolteacher... Mr. Cooper the storekeeper... and her neighbour's son Bobby, adding to his savings account.

When Tom arrived, he grinned: "Seems like everybody goes to the bank." It's true. Canadians find the chartered banks such a safe and handy place to keep money that practically everybody has a bank account. There are now more than 10 million deposit accounts in the chartered banks—more accounts than there are adults in the country.

DETECTION DRIVE STARTS

Diabetes Check Free, Easy, Sure

The diabetes detection drive here is now under way.

Sponsored by the Victoria and District Branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association, with the co-operation of local medical men, it lasts until Saturday.

It costs nothing to find out if you have diabetes—and between 5,000 and 6,000 cases in the Greater Victoria area are believed to be sufferers from the disease and not know it.

Tests for the disease are simple, speedy and painless. Persons wishing to be tested should complete the form printed here and present it with a urine sample to their family physician or one of the central testing stations. The sample should be contained in a clean glass bottle and the top tightly fastened. A two or three-ounce sample is required.

Tests will be carried out in the presence of the applicant and will be completed in a few minutes.

Following are the times when samples may be presented at testing stations:

Royal Jubilee, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, noon to 8:30 p.m.

St. Joseph's, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, noon to 9 p.m.

City Health Centre, Thursday and Friday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Doctors' offices, Nov. 14 to 21 inclusive, regular office hours.

24-Hr. Warning Accompanies Seattle Transit Strike Vote

SEATTLE (AP)—Street Car Union members voted 1,004 to 155 Tuesday to authorize a strike to enforce demands for higher pay by the municipally owned Seattle transit system.

The vote was accompanied by a pledge of union leaders that no strike will be called without more than 24 hours' notice.

The union is asking for a 20-cent-an-hour raise and other working condition changes. The transit commission has offered a cost-of-living increase of four cents an hour. The current scale for operators is $2.18 an hour, which the commission says is the highest in the United States.

Oak Bay to Join Health Board By End of Year, Predicts Sammon

Oak Bay is expected to join the Victoria - Esquimalt Union Board of Health before "the year is out," according to board chairman G. K. Sammon.

He suggested Tuesday the board join in a round table discussion with Oak Bay council to clear any barriers to the health board union.

If Oak Bay does not enter it was indicated the board would begin charging fees for services now provided free to Oak Bay residents, including inoculations and pre-camp physicals.

DOING THEIR WORK
The sooner we do our own work for our own people, the better," said Ald. Austin Curtis. "Reeve Norris says he is satisfied with his health department, but we are doing most of his work for him."

The board decided to support city council action in extending the time for compliance with the by-law which requires sinks be installed in every housekeeping room.

McWhinney Improving

City Trucker Ordered to Trial In Traffic Death of Archdeacon

Committal for trial in a higher court on a charge of criminal negligence arising out of a fatal traffic accident was ordered in Colwood RCMP Tuesday afternoon for Elvin Warren Slater, 21, of 840 Bay.

The charge corresponds to the motor manslaughter charge of the old Criminal Code.

Slater is accused as the driver of a coal truck which collided with an English-made car near Parsons Bridge Sept. 25, causing fatal injuries to Archdeacon Robert Little, 75, of 42 Kildew.

Slater is free on $3,500 bail. Cpl. D. G. Thompson, head of the Colwood RCMP detachment, testified at the preliminary hearing there was no evidence at the crash scene which indicated where the impact occurred in relation to the centre line.

PULLED OUT
In previous testimony, a truck driver who had been proceeding south on the highway directly in front of Slater's vehicle—said he saw the coal truck pull out slightly toward the left just before the crash.

It had been found entwined in the wreckage of the archdeacon's car and Cpl. Thompson said it had acted as a "battering ram," ripping the left front door completely off and peeling back the roof.

A statement taken from Slater at his home shortly after the accident decided Slater was guilty of "culpable neglect."

English Goalie Receives Price Tag of £25,000

LONDON (CP) — Coventry City has placed a £25,000 price tag on Reg Matthews, the 23-year-old England goalkeeper.

The transfer fee figure was set by club directors after repeated requests from Matthews that he be allowed a chance to join a First Division club.

However, the high fee — more than double the all-time top price for a goalkeeper — appears to have scared off two interested clubs.

Chelsea manager Ted Drake, who had said his club "badly needed" the brilliant young net-minder, declined to comment on the Coventry figure. Sheffield Wednesday, which had also expressed keen interest, said: "We're not interested."

Wash and dry every day if need be. Electricity does these household chores for you automatically. An automatic dryer dries a mountain of wash in just about the time it used to take you to hang it out. You'll be amazed how little electricity it uses—approximately a nickel's worth for each load.

Westwood to Quit Post of Mayor

New Trade Minister To Resign On Return From Trip Nov. 19

NANAIMO (CP)—Mayor Earle C. Westwood, who also holds the post of minister of trade and industry in the B.C. government, told council Tuesday night he expects to resign his post as mayor on his return from a trip on government business Nov. 19.

Donald Wood Voting Officer For C. Saanich

Nominations Close On December 6

SAANICHTON—Donald S. Wood was appointed by council Tuesday to act as returning officer for the Central Saanich municipal election Dec. 15. Nomination day is Dec. 6.

The municipal hall on East Saanich Road at Wallace Drive, Keating Institute Hall and Brentwood elementary school were named as the three polling stations.

Reeve H. Rupert Brown is seeking re-election and two councillors, Harry A. Peard and John B. Windsor this year are completing their terms of office. Councillors Ray M. Lamont and Peter F. Warren have another year to serve.

Councillors Peard and Windsor have yet to announce their intentions but it is expected they will seek re-election.

One candidate will be elected to the police commission and one school trustee, George D. Moody and Mrs. H. J. MacDonald have held these posts, respectively, and are expected to seek re-election.

The only measure to be voted on is the library plebiscite.

Coun. Lamont, civil defence co-ordinator for the area, spent three-quarters of an hour trying to get Central Saanich municipality to support a policy of evacuation. He urged setting up an organizational unit to govern the district in an emergency.

Asked whether he had anyone in mind to take over the post of civil defence officer in the Central Saanich area, Coun. Lamont replied that he had, Philip S. Lomas.

Reeve Brown said the "apathy of the public generally on civil defence matters was appalling."

"In the event of a hydrogen bomb war," he said, "we would be in the front line of battle."

Reeve Brown's suggestion that a public meeting be organized in the area may be acted upon.

A letter was read from Mrs. Vivian Cowan, Sidney, that district's centennial celebration manager, suggesting that Central Saanich consider a joint celebration marking B.C.'s centennial in 1958.

The proposal will come before the Central Saanich committee meeting Nov. 26.

Peter Smirle, 17, was given two years suspended sentence, and a 16-year-old Nanaimo boy was placed on probation.

Another youth, Stanley Lavigne, arrested for possession of stolen property in relation to the thefts,

High Interest Rates Blamed In Vote Delay

NANAIMO (CP)—Deferment of the submission of two money by-laws to the voters has been attributed by city council to federal financial policies.

The by-laws, which would provide $307,000 for construction of an indoor swimming pool and $98,000 for construction of a new library building, will be deferred until money market conditions are more favorable, council decided Monday.

Council's decision was particularly attributed to high interest rates.

George Darling, chairman of the Vancouver Regional Library, told the council the city would have to find suitable surroundings for the Nanaimo library because the present building is a fire hazard.

Gas Burns Fatal To Cedar Woman

NANAIMO—Mrs. Josephine Wise of Cedar died in Nanaimo General Hospital at 9:15 Tuesday night from burns received in a gasoline explosion in a car Friday night.

Mrs. Wise became a human torch when a can of white gasoline exploded in the back seat of the car. Her husband and brother, Andy Wesley, also were injured in the accident.

Island Forest Farm Leads B.C. in Tree Cultivation

NANAIMO—No where in British Columbia is forest land being cultivated with the intensity noted on the Harmac tree farm, a 17,239-acre tract that will help supply the huge Harmac pulp mill near by.

Almost every operation carried on in agriculture is duplicated here by methods still being developed by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. foresters.

Where growth is too dense the trees are thinned. Where there are "weeds" they are removed. Special seed is raised, new crops are tested, when crops ripen they are harvested, and vacant areas are replanted. And like any good farmer, the company has planned its program so that this cycle of planting, growth, and harvest can be continued in perpetuity.

MOSTLY LOGGED

The tree farm area, which consists of two large and several smaller tracts, lies within an 18-mile-radius of the pulp mill. A total of 98 per cent of its area has been logged, and regrowth is from one to 31 years old.

The company's objectives are to reforest areas not growing a full crop, improve existing stands, convert patches of mature alder and maple to a pulp-type tree, and to thin the advanced forests for commercial pulpwood.

A first thinning of pulp material has been made on a 31-year-old stand, where big, healthy, fast-growing trees were left standing and smaller ones removed. The thinning was done at the rate of nine cords per acre, and will be continued every fifth year, when seven and one-half cords will be removed per acre in each thinning.

Since one man working with a power saw can cut and stack from one and one-half to two cords per day, and be paid $18 per cord for the wood delivered at Harmac, it can be seen that it is a profitable operation for the company, and could be profitable for any other individual who wished to start a tree farm.

As a result of progressive thinning, foresters feel the land will not only give regular profitable yields, but will produce a much bigger and better final crop of timber than if no thinning had been done.

In order to improve seed used in helicopter planting of the company's Vancouver Island properties, a six-acre grove of 20-year-old fir has been thinned to eliminate weed trees and poor quality fir. Seed produced on this area will be of superior strain and faster growth than average because it comes from the best trees.

At another spot near by fertilizers are being applied to discover means of stimulating cone production. Success in this venture might eliminate poor seed crops that occur frequently.

'COPTER-WEEDER'

"Weed-killing" is done by helicopter, which drops a selective spray that kills off alder and maple and spares the evergreens.

"Alder and maple are excellent and useful woods when grown under ideal conditions," said Ian Mahood, company forester, while leading a party through the farm. "But where the ground is more suitable for fir, such as here, we kill them off."

A source of destruction that is harder to deal with is the deer population, that finds the small, tasty evergreens at just the right height for grazing.

Another venture under way is the cultivation of red pine. This is a species that does well on poor, dry soils in eastern Canada. A planting set out here in 1954 will show whether the species will do better than fir on the poorer soils within the tree farm.

This huge area extends from the eastern slopes of Mount Benson on the north to within four miles of Ladysmith on the south. It is a country of rolling hills and deep canyons, and as far as the eye can see lush greenery gives the lie to worries that "this country is done for—it's worked out—it'll never come back."

It not only will come back. It already has come back in a limited way, and will become more and more productive with each passing year.

Central Saanich Voters To Hear Library Plan

BRENTWOOD — The library situation in Central Saanich will be explained by Greater Victoria Public Library representatives at a public meeting to be held in Brentwood Women's Institute hall library, Nov. 28, at 8 p.m.

Central Saanich council proposes to submit two alternatives to the voters at the December municipal elections, and in order that all may be informed of the situation a circular letter has been prepared and circulated giving the facts.

One alternative calls for complete elimination of the present bookmobile service, thus obliging all borrowers to obtain books from Victoria Public Library.

The other proposes severe curtailment of the bookmobile service, such as limiting adults and older school children to borrowing a maximum of two books at one time, barring children of grade 1 and pre-school age from borrowing at all, and restricting those of grades 2, 3, and 4 to one book each.

EDUCATORS CHARGE

Canada Wasting Talented Youth

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Two educational experts said Tuesday Canada is squandering its human resources of gifted young people.
They estimated that no more than one-third of such young people get university educations to develop their talents fully.

The statements were made by Dr. R. B. W. Jackson and Dr.
W. G. Fleming of the educational research department at the Ontario College of Education, Toronto.

In a paper presented at a universities conference on the crisis in higher education, they said the present pattern of university attendance "is disturbing enough to leave little room for satisfaction, even among the most complacent."

"We seem to be doing an admirable job of squandering the priceless human resources available to us. It can, in fact, be argued on the basis of fragments of information at hand that we are utilizing to the full the talents of probably no more than one-third of our academically gifted young men and women."

They said much more data on the situation is needed before any sensible planning can be done to correct it.

"If we are short of trained personnel, it is our own fault. The intellectual and other abilities are present in sufficient quantity in every generation; we not only fail to use them, we fail even to recognize them."

THREE SUBMISSIONS
The paper was one of three on the topic presented at the conference sponsored by the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

Dr. Arthur Tremblay, professor of education at Laval University, Quebec City, said the first problem in French-speaking schools is not at the university level. The problem was to bring more students into the secondary schools.

T. H. Matthews, registrar of Mc-Gill University, dealt with the rate of failures among university undergraduates: About one-third of freshmen do not graduate. He suggested more compulsion and discipline in early years to make students work hard.

"To make a student work hard, especially if the compulsion is not obvious, is to make him happy," he said.

NOT ENOUGH EDUCATED
The most critical review of the situation, however, was made by Dr. Jackson and Dr. Fleming.
They estimated that in Canada, of 100 children who begin school life, seven or eight will enter university and not more than five or six will graduate.

Columbia Hydro Power To Stay in B.C.—Bennett

A two-man delegation from Vancouver City Council was assured by Premier Bennett today all power developed from the Columbia River will be used in British Columbia.

Ald. Halford D. Wilson and
Ald. Earle Adams said Premier Bennett told them there would be plenty of power from the Columbia to meet the growing needs of the lower mainland and southern Vancouver Island.

The Vancouver aldermen asked that in any Columbia River development at least 2,500,000 kilowatts should be set aside for the lower mainland. They estimated the Columbia's potential at 3,000,000 kilowatts.

"Premier Bennett told us the power potential is actually much higher than our estimate," Alderman Adams said. "But he did not give us an actual figure."

He also assured us there would be no exporting of Columbia River power from B.C.
He said power needs throughout the province would be met as they arise.

ber, in the amount of $36,000, bank building at Crofton.

sued by the municipality in the after a three-day trial here.

Pellandine had been charged with the attempted murder of Emma Boffa of Clinton, following an all-night drinking party.

Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan told jurors that Pellandine could be found guilty as charged, guilty of attempting to wound, grievous bodily harm, or found not guilty.

The jury deliberated two hours and 10 minutes before bringing in the not guilty verdict.

tatives of more than 100,000
B.C. trade union members will hold a merger convention starting here Thursday to bring about unity of the provincial groups associated with the PRISONER RECAPTURED

CHILLIWACK—Eighteen-year-old Archie Snow, who escaped with 20-year-old Paul Phillips from a minimum security farm at Haney, a division of Oakalla prison, was recaptured
Tuesday by RCMP here.

60-MPH CHASE

LYTTON—Two juveniles will face charges of theft and breaking and entering, following their arrest after a 60-mile-an-hour chase through the Fraser Canyon Sunday.

Police arrested the two after a gas station attendant near here chased them and blocked off their escape in his light truck after they had driven away without paying for gas.
Police learned later the juveniles were in a stolen car.

They will face charges in Kamloops and will also be charged with breaking into a house near Lytton.

ELECTRICIANS GET BOOST

VANCOUVER—Nearly 1,000 Lower Mainland electricians are believed to have become Canada's highest paid building trades workers.

The workers Wednesday accepted a 57-cent-an-hour wage boost over two years, which will raise their basic rate to $2.99 an hour by Oct. 1, 1957.

ESCAPES GAS FUMES

VANCOUVER—George Hall,
42, a B.C. Electric Co. worker, was overcome by gas Tuesday when he went down a manhole to connect two mains. His partner, Wayne Wardenburg, jumped into the hole and pushed him to safety.

LOGGER INJURED

KAMLOOPS—William Thurner, 25, is in hospital here after wrists and possible internal injuries.

TO EVACUATE HOSPITAL

VANCOUVER—Plans are being completed for the full-scale evacuation of St. Paul's Hospital Sunday in the first practical test of hospital evacuation in event of atomic attack.

About 360 people will take part in the program, 100 of them representing actual patients.

Purpose of the evacuation—to a mobile hospital set up in Burnaby—is to allow study of the complexities which might arise in actual evacuation.

CHALLENGES EGG ACT

VANCOUVER—F. W. Crick-ard, Vancouver egg broker, is suing the attorney-general of B.C. for a declaration that the Provincial Eggs Marks Act is ultra vires.

The plaintiff alleges that the legislation imposes an onerous duty on egg dealers importing eggs from the U.S. because each egg must be marked in accordance with the act.

HUGE "WINGS PARADE"

VANCOUVER—One hundred and fifty pilots will receive gold wings here Nov. 18 in the largest non-military "wings parade" ever staged in Canada.

mainland and Vancouver Island who trained with the Aero Club of B.C. and received pilot's li-

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government proposes to launch a $100,000,000 aid-to-culture program early next year. The $100,000,000 would come out of the next federal budget. This may be one way of whittling down a large federal surplus without increasing the spending power of taxpayers at a time of inflation. (News item.)

This is news of the first magnitude. As a long-time voter for culture, I hail the plan to provide $100,000,000 for the promotion of cultural development.

Especially as it would avoid that dread possibility, an increase in spending power of the taxpayer.

Taxpayers are supposed to pay taxes, and not be bothered with spending power.

Thus I am in hearty accord with the $100,000,000 culture plan, with one reservation—albeit an important one.

One hundred million dollars seems hardly enough.

After all, this is only slightly more than six dollars per man, woman and child in Canada.

And, at today's prices, what can $100,000,000 buy?

Perhaps in the days when artists were content to starve in garrets on a comfortable stipend of four bucks a year, with a can of beans and a crust of bread thrown in, $100,000,000 would have been enough.

But now, hardly any artist is satisfied to starve in a garret. They prefer to do their starving in penthouses with north light, a carousel electronic paint-mixer, and dark glasses with which to view the result.

There was a time when a reasonably sharp flint and a chunk of granite would keep a sculptor happy for months.

Now, of course, air hammer and diamond drills are de rigueur with any sculptor, and most of them demand a mountain worth at least $10,000,000 before they cut a lick.

You may ask, what about the artists who make mobiles out of old coat hangers? Surely, you may ask, $100,000,000 would finance an adequate supply of mobiles made from old coat hangers?

If you ask (as above) you are not up on modern day culture. Mobiles are not made from just any old coat hanger. Not even gold or platinum-plated coat hangers are good enough.

The truly cultural mobile artist of today cannot give of his best unless the old coat hangers had formerly been used to carry mutation mink coats.

As you can see from these examples, the price of culture, too, is going up.

But we must not despair. The government has at least taken a forward step, even if the culture fund, so far, only amounts to $100,000,000.

Let us hope they increase this amount to the point where the taxpayer will have no spending power at all, thus releasing his mind from monetary interests, and allowing him to concentrate on culture.

Former King's Orderly Dies At Chemainus

Funeral services for George C. James, King's orderly at Buckingham Palace for several years prior to 1913, will be held at the Chemainus Anglican Church Thursday at 2 p.m.

A former Victoria resident Mr. James died in Chemainus Hospital Monday at the age of 81.

Born in Tregar, Wales, he enlisted in the Grenadier Guards as a young man and later became King's orderly at Buckingham Palace, performing guardmen's duty out of the palace at Wellington, Chelsea, Windsor Barracks and the Tower of London.

As drill sergeant, he was instructor to the men who later directed the land forces of Britain in the First World War. The trainees included Viscount Gort and Prince Alexander of Battenburg, who became Lord Mountbatten during the war.

Mr. James was among 12 Grenadiers chosen as pallbearers for the late King Edward and was a member of the guard of honor for the coronation of King George VI.

In 1898 he served with his guard battalion at Gibraltar and South Africa through the Boer War.

He left Wellington Barracks for Canada in 1913 and was a member of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Winnipeg for 33 years.

His banking career was interrupted in 1915 when he enlisted with the 78th Battalion, later transferring to the Winnipeg Grenadiers.

Through the First World War, Mr. James served in England as captain and adjutant of the regiment. He was commanding officer in charge of training at Aldershot.

BACK TO BANKING

Mr. James returned to Winnipeg after the war, continuing with the bank until 1946 when he moved to Victoria.

In 1955, Mr. James moved to Chemainus, where he was a member of the Canadian Legion, No. 191.

He leaves his wife, Maud, Chemainus; sons George, Claude and Murray in Winnipeg; another son, David, and his daughter Mary Anne, Chemainus; five grandchildren, and three brothers in England.

Rev. A. G. Howe will officiate at the funeral services. Interment will follow at Cedar Memorial Gardens.

MANAGER of Imperial Oil's B.C. marketing division, R. S. Ritchie will address the local branch of the National Office Management Association here at the Pacific Club next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. He will tell top management of this area about "Automation in the Office."

TRADERS ALL

Car for Guitar, Suits for Free, As OORs Leave

By AB KENT

The ultimate in horse trading was reached at the weekend at Camp Gordon Head as men of Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles of Canada heading for the Mid-East shucked personal belongings.

One rifleman left behind got himself a 1941 Buick, worth about $250 on a new car, in trade for a $450 guitar. The car owner was desperate to dispose of the car and the 243-man draft just couldn't go overseas without a guitar.

Most of the impulsive deals were made by members of Delta Company, the youngest average age group in the battalion.

As soon as men heard a draft would be chosen—even before they knew who would go—they started throwing things out of barracks boxes.

ACCUMULATION

They tossed out alarm clocks, suits of clothes, shirts and all manner of gimcracks and gewgaws accumulated during their army days.

"There was the darndest amount of horse-trading you ever want to see," said company commander Capt. Jim Mitchell.

For instance, there were $4.95 sports shirts going for a tin of used shoe polish. All sorts of articles were pressed on men by their departing barracks mates. Most of it was buddy-to-buddy.

There was a 1952 Chev. taken over for $150 and three monthly payments of $50 each.

"TAKE 'EM"

A rifleman with two suits he won't be needing in the Suez approached his corporal who was staying at Camp Gordon Head:

"You're a pretty good corporal. How would you like to have a couple of suits? Take 'em."

The corporal thanked him and tucked them away. Then he learned he, too, was going in the draft. But did he pass on the suits? Heck, no—he sent them home.

Big Food Store For Esquimalt

Sixth and largest Super-Valu Chain Store in this area will be constructed in Esquimalt next year at an estimated cost of $100,000.

The building will occupy 10,000 square feet on two lots at the corner of Esquimalt Road and Head Street.

It will be similar to the new Super-Valu Store in James Bay, which opens Thursday, but "about 3,000 square feet larger," said D. G. Burden, local manager of Kelly, Douglas & Co., sponsors of Super-Valu stores in B.C.

City Restaurateur Dies in 59th Year

Funeral services for George Thomas Cartwright, well-known city restaurateur, who died Tuesday at his residence, 3915 Cumberland, will be held at Sands Mortuary Thursday at 3:15 p.m.

Mr. Cartwright, a resident of Victoria 48 of his 58 years, was one time proprietor of Duffy's Tavern on Yates and for the last four years was owner of the Four Ways Coffee Shop, Quadra.

Born in England, he was a member of the Royal Colwood Golf Club and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Among survivors are his wife, Jessie, at home; daughters, Mrs. Norman Carter of Campbell River and Mrs. Stan Nixon, Courtenay.

Very Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean will officiate at the funeral service and cremation will follow.

B.C. House to Get Additional Space

British Columbia House in London will be altered to expand its facilities for handling visitors, agent-general W. A. McAdam said here today.

Authorization has been given for structural changes, to enlarge the entrance hall and to install a permanent front display of B.C. timber products, he said.

"There has been a tremendous growth of interest in B.C. during the past few years, and we need a larger entrance hall to receive the increasing number of visitors, not only from B.C., but from European countries," he explained.

The timber display will be built in co-operation with B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. McAdam, the "dean" of Canadian agents-general in Britain, will return to England aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth from New York on Dec. 8.

accompanying by Mrs. McAdam.

They leave for Vancouver on Thursday afternoon and will make a motor tour of California before traveling east to New York.

"We have thoroughly enjoyed our visit," Mr. McAdam said, "and it has been most profitable so far as B.C. House is concerned. I have had the opportunity of meeting all the ministers and discussing our problems."

Man Who Gave Self Up Here Gets 1-Year Term

A man who gave himself up to Victoria city detectives a month ago has been sentenced in Golden, B.C., to one year imprisonment for the $1,400 robbery of a meat market in the interior town.

The sentence was imposed on Thomas Donaldson, 29, who said he committed the crime while passing through Golden en route to Victoria.

City detectives said today Donaldson walked into their office Oct. 18 and confessed the robbery because he "couldn't live with it any more."

Local officers were skeptical of his story until checking with RCMP who confirmed he was the wanted man.

Donaldson was returned to Golden where he pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Magistrate William McGruder.

An RCMP official said today Donaldson had cashed a number of cheques taken from the Golden Meat Market and "things were getting tough for him."

WORD FROM DISTILLER

Drink Your Scotch Slowly With No Gimmicky Mixes

The sensible way to drink Scotch whisky?

So says John A. R. Macphail.

pleasant 33-year-old director of Arthur Bell & Sons Ltd., Perth, Scotland, which makes the commodity.

Normal people drink it with water—no gimmicky mixes, as Scotch doesn't lend itself to such fanciful preparations as egg-noggs.

Mr. Macphail, though a Scotsman, has no heather accent. He was born in Singapore and lived in South Africa before heading home. He's here to check on how Bell distillery products are doing.

There are four directors of the organization and as far as personal absorption is concerned "moderation is a help," says Mr. Macphail.

Mr. Macphail says the reasonable age to start drinking his product is between 25 and 30, not sooner, as "by this time a person is educated as to what it is all about."

He says sale of Scotch whisky is increasing in the United States and is "ahead of last year, which was a record."

Canadians are still rye drinkers, though Mr. Macphail said from what he had been able to see, Scotch was as much of a party drink in Canada as rye.

Evidence Held Inadequate

An 18-year-old girl, accused with three youths of the attempted holdup of a city service station early Tuesday, was freed in city police court today.

The charge of attempted armed robbery against Judy Stothers, Glen Court Hotel, was withdrawn on the application of prosecutor Alan Bigelow.

EVIDENCE LACKING

"Further investigation has indicated there is not sufficient evidence to support the charge," Mr. Bigelow told Magistrate H. C. Hall.

The girl was charged with James Proudlove, 19, of 2811 Adelaide; Grant Shaver, 20, of 2829 Cedar Hill Road; and Donald Thompson, 23, Mount Newton Cross Road.

The youths are accused of attempting to hold up the Knott and Elford BA Station at the Fountain Circle at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The holdup was foiled by two employees of the station.

Proudlove pleaded guilty in city court Tuesday, while Shaver and Thompson told Magistrate Hall they were not guilty and asked to be tried by a County Court judge.

They were remanded to Friday for further hearing. Shaver and Thompson will have a preliminary hearing in police court.

Matched Accessory Prints For Your Special Outfit

By PENNY SAVER

Straight out of Vogue and meant especially for you are the smart and distinctive necktie ribbons that have their own made-to-match earrings. Pattern prints of silk ribbon are picked up and used as the patterns for glazed pottery earrings. Your dressiest sweaters that adapt well to a feminine touch, will look tres chic, as will a suit, with the soft silk necktie tucked in, just peeking out. The necktie ribbons and earrings are individually hand-made, each one just a bit different. The prints are interesting and colorful, and there are seven patterns from which to choose. The set costs $3.49.

Another peek into a fashion magazine, and you'll see soft and casual-looking blouses. In smart over-blouse style with drawstring ties at the hip or waistline. Studied casualness—that's the picture that is set before you with these attractive and appealing blouses. Black and white jersey fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and mandarin collar, that can be converted into a tiny skirt or with your favorite lounging pants.

They're top fashion right now, and it's understandable, for they're comfortable and just the thing for the woman who likes top stylings at low prices. The blouses are yours for $7.95.

Since black seems to be hitting the spotlight so much now in the fashion world, the black velvet silk-fringed stole I saw in town might be the finishing touch for an outfit that "needed something". With white, it would be stunning, and with black, highlighted with some other touch of brilliance it will be an eye-catcher. Not an expensive item, this one, for it's selling at $4.95.

Unexpected are many of this season's downpours, so you, and the children, too, should be prepared, with umbrellas. Just the right size for the kids are plaid, eight-rib umbrellas with plastic handles. They're $1 each.

Other umbrellas for the young set are printed with nursery rhyme characters, and the handles of plastic are animals' heads. These are priced at $1.95.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find the items mentioned in the column.

MARJORAM: There are two kinds, Sweet and Wild Marjoram. So far, I've only used the wild variety, which has quite a good flavor though Sweet or Knotted Marjoram is undoubtedly the better of the two. Wild or Sweet Marjoram are both good in soups, salads, cheese and egg-dishes. Peas, beans and tomatoes are improved with a little Marjoram added just before serving.

SAGE: Try and get the broad-leaved variety which being green (as against the grey of the other) looks more attractive. For sauces, seasonings, stuffings or cottage cheese. Only a very little Sage should be used, particularly in cooking. Too much Sage or overcooked, can be unpleasant and even poisonous! (I'll write fully on this point in another article on basic herbs).

PARSLEY: There are several varieties with their well-known uses. As a variation, why not grow Chervil, which has a slightly anise-flavor and is one of the ingredients of "Fines Herbes." You may like it tossed over new potatoes, or "dotted" over mashed.

ROSEMARY: Is so useful as a culinary herb that it shall have an article to itself! In the meantime, try it fresh in fruit-salad; in jams and jellies, and a leaf or two in a milk-pudding.

WINTER SAVORY: Has a milder taste than the annual, Summer Savory, with its sharp, rather "peppy" flavor, and I think Winter Savory is really nicer all round. Goes with peas and green beans, and is good in stuffing for baked potatoes. Winter Savory is tasty in hamburgers; improves all fowl stuffings and makes good sweet-sour jellies. Use it carefully at first, until you are accustomed to its rather oily flavor.

LEMON BALM: This plant seems to grow prolifically in Victoria (I'm always seeing it in gardens here!) Cut up the fresh, young leaves in your fruit-salads; sprinkle them over fruit-punch just before chilling; cook a sprig of lemon balm when next stewing prunes. Try balm tea. In New Zealand I used to add lemon balm when cooking silver beet or spinach.

TARRAGON: Once used, never forgotten! Good in tomato juice. Tarragon-vinegar is often in French dressings for salads and is also an ingredient of French mustard. Flavors fish, sauces and stews.

BASIL: One of the most popular of culinary herbs. Gives a delicate flavor to tomatoes;

Kenora Housewife Starts On Road to Federal Office

Mrs. William Carter, 33, says she is planning to give fellow townsman W. M. Benidickson, the Liberal-Labor member, "the fight of his life" in the next federal election.

"I'll put everything into this campaign," said Mrs. Carter in an interview.

Her husband, a Kenora school teacher, was defeated as a CCF candidate in Kenora Riding in the last provincial election.

One of a family of 11, the diminutive Mrs. Carter says she became interested in politics while her husband was attending Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

Nepalese Woman One Year In Canada, Still Wears the Sari

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fashion designers would have a tough time plying their trade in India where the perennial sari is never out of fashion.

Take it from a Nepalese woman who refuses to switch to western dress, although she has been in Canada a year.

Agnes Francis, children's nurse for Douglas Stewart-Smith, United Kingdom trade commissioner here says the sari is head and shoulders above anything western designers have dreamed up for comfort, efficiency and simplicity. The Stewart-Smith's engaged Agnes six years ago while the commissioner was stationed at Calcutta, India.

Since that time Agnes has never changed to western clothes although her work with the commissioner has taken her to south India, east and south Africa, England and finally Canada.

The sari has brought raised eyebrows here from other shoppers and church and movie goers. It is set off by gold earrings, a gold bracelet and a gold ring with a ruby inset worn in the nostril.

The garment is nothing more than a bolt of cloth containing up to 40 yards of material. However, the art is in folding the garment around the body—a technique only a native can achieve quickly to bring the desired simplicity and grace.

In winter Agnes dons boots and covers the sari with a fur coat making the garment practical the year around.

She sees no reason to change to western styles which the Stewart-Smiths say she can do whenever she desires.

Agnes' pet peeves include what she calls the "lump dress of Canadian teen-agers."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

One of the greatest of women's the size of the bust itself must be taken into consideration. The bra and cup size. Busts are width between the breasts is varied and many elements enter also a factor. Therefore, today, into the type brassiere which is I am going to give you some rules to help you determine the bone structure as well as your size. These come from

The Corset and Brassiere Council.

Measure around the body, over your brassiere, just under the bust, holding the tape snug but not tight. If the result is an odd number, add five inches to determine brassiere size; if an even number, add six inches, up to the measurement of 38, when you add only three or four inches to the tape reading. Cups are designated by letter, from AAA to D. To determine cup size measure around the body where the bust is fullest. If this measurement is identical to your brassiere size, you take an A cup; if one inch more than your bra size, a cup B; two inches, C cup; three inches, D cup.

A brassiere should support the bust in its natural position. This varies with individuals. As a general rule the centre of the bust should be on line with the halfway mark between the shoulder and the elbow.

Today there are many styles which will please the woman who has widely separated busts. These should not be jammed together. This type is usually an attractive bust. The youthful, high breasts are usually this way.

There are many bras with the cups completely separate, except for a connecting wire or narrow strip of material.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 7 which gives you exercises for increasing your bust measurement, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

About Guest's Hotel Bill:

We expect to have a very good friend visit us for a few days. As we have a very small home and cannot comfortably accommodate him overnight (which he is aware of), would it be proper for us to make the reservations for him at a local hotel and pay the bill?

Louise Davis answers: This is something you'd have to weigh. Yes, make the hotel reservation for your friend, and as a gesture of hospitality it would be alright for you to pay the bill, especially if you extended the invitation. However, if the man made the first move by asking if he could come for a brief visit it would be alright for him to pay the bill, although you could insist on it if you wanted to.

If you have decided that he is to be your guest write him a note that you are expecting him to be your guest while in the city and that you have made arrangements that he stay at the hotel because he would be more comfortable than in your cramped quarters. Have it understood at the time you make the reservation that the hotel mail you a statement.

If this friend is apt to visit you frequently, he might feel more free to come again if you let him pay.

Nehru 66 Today Hits Peak of Popularity

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is celebrating his 66th birthday today. During the last eight years he has come to occupy a position of popularity and strength never before achieved in Indian history.

Before India attained independence in 1947, Nehru was the idol of the Indian masses, next only to Mahatma Gandhi. Today, he is the most powerful man in India and the undisputed leader of the nation.

NO HECKLING

His popularity has become an established feature of the Indian scene. Even the slightest criticism of him by any Indian is looked upon as "treason" by many Indians. Recently, when students of Gujarat University heckled him while he was trying to address them, both press and public un-animously condemned the students' action.

Nehru's power both inside the cabinet and outside is almost absolute. But, with ingrained respect for democracy, he has bent all his energies to developing a parliamentary democracy in India.

Dedicated to the task of making India an industrially-advanced nation, to raising the standard of living of the people and to welding them into a powerful nation, Nehru often gets impatient at the country's slow progress.

In addition to being prime minister, Nehru also is the foreign minister and chairman of both the atomic energy commission and the planning commission. In his pre-occupation with foreign affairs and his efforts to spread the spirit of co-existence abroad, he is helped by V. K. Krishna Menon, a member of the cabinet without portfolio.

WORK AND YOGA

Nehru works 14 to 18 hours a day. His day starts at about 7:30 a.m. and sometimes goes on far into the night. He enjoys excellent health and does physical fitness exercises regularly, including a few minutes of "sirsasana"—the Yoga exercise of standing on one's head.

Many believe the prime minister should try to groom someone of sufficient political integrity and popularity to succeed him. Some say that Nehru favors Jai Prakash Narayan, 54-year-old American-educated Socialist leader, as his successor. But Narayan recently declared his intention of giving up politics.

The only other likely successor being mentioned is Morarji Desai, now the chief minister of Bombay. Desai, 60, is a man of unquestioned political integrity and principles.

Recount Gives PCs Extra Seat In Nova Scotia

BERWICK, N. S. (CP)—The Progressive Conservative majority in the new Nova Scotia legislature increased by one Tuesday night after a recount of votes in Kings West constituency.

County court Judge B. W. Roscoe announced the election of Hiram Thomas, the Progressive Conservative candidate, by a majority of three after two days of counting ballots.

On provincial election night Oct. 30 the seat went to Liberal C. D. McLean by a six-vote margin.

The new result raised the House strength of Progressive Conservative premier-elect Robert Stanfield to 24 seats from 23. Liberals headed by retiring Premier Hicks dropped from 19 to 18. The other seat in the 43-member legislature is held by the CCF.

HUNGARY BENEFIT

'Red' Dean's Hat To Aid Relief Drive

DURHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—The hat of the "Red" Dean of Canterbury will be raffled for Hungarian relief funds.

Students at Durham University said they stole the hat of 82-year-old Dean Hewlett Johnson while he spoke here Tuesday night.

"We will raffle it for Hungarian relief," one of them said. The dean had issued a statement Monday night blaming the West for Russian intervention in Hungary.

Tuesday night, as he spoke, a group of students marched up to him and laid a coffin draped in the Hungarian flag at his feet.

"This is a tribute to the Hungarian people who have died for the freedom of their church and country," one of the students said.

The dean joined in the loud applause which followed. "May God rest them and may wars cease," he said.

Haifa-Gaza Railway Link Re-Established

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Haifa-Gaza railway link was re-established Tuesday for the first time since the 1948 Palestine war when a train from Northern Israel reached Gaza railway station. The event was made a festive ceremony by Israelis now administering the Gaza Strip in its entirety.

NEHRU MAY VISIT CANADA

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—

Prime Minister Nehru hopes to fly to Canada for a brief visit after his talks with President Eisenhower in Washington next month, it was authoritatively learned here today. A Canadian government official said in Ottawa Tuesday that the Canadian government was likely to invite Nehru to visit Ottawa after his trip to the United States.

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU works 14-18 hours a day.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

Is baby on the brink of that first birthday? It probably seems only a couple of yesterday's ago that your pride 'n joy was completely dependent upon you. Now independence is the order of the day for your self-styled Gulliver. Such fun finding out what feet are for—that little hands can make a spoon behave—or that a coo really comes out as a word. All part of learning coordination, confidence, basic ingredients for growing up.

More ingredients for growing up—table fare for tykes with teeth. Like Gerber Junior Foods, for instance—prepared with a tender, evenly minced texture that's just right for tots who can chew. Then too, they have the naturally good true flavors and eye-appealing colors baby's been used to in Gerber Strained Foods. And you have a grand choice to keep that appetite perky.

Bang-up idea, 2 simple ways to cut toddlers' bangs, minus fuss, muss and tears. (1) Apply a strip of cellophane tape across bottom of bangs and cut along tape edge. No prickly hairs in baby's eyes... a straight line is assured. (2) Hold a small opened envelope directly above baby's eyes and snip. Hair drops neatly into envelope and the kit and kaboodle can be disposed of easily.

Hearty main dishes for nippy November days. Gerber Junior Vegetable and Meat Dinners combine 2 important food groups—vegetables and meat—for extra nourishment and unusual flavor interest. There are 7 appetizing varieties of Gerber Junior Vegetable and Meat Dinners—all are as wholesome as can be. Look for them on your Grocers' shelves.

Safety first dept. Dangling iron or toaster cords can lead to disaster in the hands of inquisitive, little toddlers, so make sure they're well out of reach. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Two FOR THE Show

By PHIL LEE

(B) "A CRY IN THE NIGHT"
(Capitol/Warner's) "A Cry in the Night" is reasonably entertaining because of the acting abilities of some of the principals. But the plot is such that the unexpected becomes the expected and thereby loses its reason for being.

The plot in brief:
Young Natalie Wood is swooning up on Lovers' Hill with her beau when she is snatched by psychopath Raymond Burr, who carries her away to his hideout. That does it. Her pappy, Edmond O'Brien, is a policeman and the entire force turns out to prove that you may be able to snatch any other guy's daughter but you can't do it to a cop's daughter.

Director Frank Tuttle manages to keep the suspense alive most of the journey by switching his cameras from the forces of the law to Natalie and Burr in the hideout. If the scene is spoiled at all, it is by Brian Donlevy, who plays the role of top cop as though he was carved out of wood. Indeed he could have passed as stand-in for Fearless Fosdick.

But the balance of the cast is adequate. Miss Wood continues to improve; O'Brien is always capable; Richard Anderson and Irene Hervey are seen to good account also.

However, a suspense drama's whole reason for existence is its ability to keep the audience in suspense. And in "A Cry in the Night" it is obvious after the first reel that Natalie will be saved, that right will triumph over wrong and there's nothing else to do but buy another bag of popcorn and hope there's a good cartoon.

BIG POTENTIAL

Long, Long Shows May Be More So

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Much ado about long pictures.

The running time of new film epics is the source of controversy in Hollywood today. Do movies run too long? Will the public rebel against sitting three and four hours to watch one movie? or will people feel they're getting their money's worth?

You hear both sides. The controversy will grow hotter as more patrons attend the new marathon movies.

The footage champ is "The 10 Commandments," which stretches three hours and 36 minutes. Close behind is "War and Peace" at a hefty 3:28, followed by "Giant" at 3:17.

It's downright common for a picture to run two hours or over these days. Until recently, the average length of a picture was 90 minutes, and many ran 80 and 70.

PRO'S AND CON'S

I found articulate partisans for both sides of the issue. In the pro faction was Edward Dmytryk, youthful looking vet of 33 years in films. He is obviously for long films, since he's directing "Raintree County," which may run four hours.

"I think longer pictures are inevitable," he argued. "If you're going to tackle big subjects, you have got to have the length to present them. Nowadays we're doing a lot of big novels. If you're limited to two hours on the screen, you can only take a portion of the book. Then you're fooling the public; they expect to see the whole story."

"The book, 'Raintree County,' covered a man's life. Even with four hours, we can only tell of six years of his life."

Taking the con side was multi-talented Dick Powell. Said he:

"I've never seen a long picture that couldn't have been improved by taking 20 minutes out of it. And that includes 'Gone With The Wind.'"

TOO LONG

"Four hours is just too long to ask anybody to sit and watch entertainment. These long pictures are strictly for young people with strong kidneys."

Long pictures are nothing new. The most famous example, of course, is "Gone With The Wind," with its three hours and 45 minutes. Back in 1915, D. W. Griffith brought the movie industry of age with "Birth of a Nation. It ran two hours and 45 minutes.

Theatre men have long opposed long pictures because they (1) prevent a quick turnover of patrons; (2) sometimes require intermissions, which can result in confusion and a scramble for seats.

But movie men argue the new longies are no greater than the length of a double bill. And with big-studio features now on television, the theatres must provide bigger and perhaps longer—entertainment.

NAME ON 51 LINES

Presley Hits Jackpot But Good

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Elvis Presley is rocking the merchandising world with as much impact as he rocks 'n' rolls the bobby-sox set.

The 21-year-old ex-truck driver has endorsed 51 products which his business agent predicts will gross more than $20,000,000 this year—a boom that would dwarf the Davy Crockett craze.

Henry Saperstein, Presley's business adviser, says Elvis' picture and signature will be on everything from cosmetics to clothing to diaries.

"The Elvis Presley line of lipsticks are named after the titles of his songs," Saperstein said. "There's 'hound dog orange,'

'heartbreak pink,' 'love ya fuschia' and 'cruel red.'"

"He also endorses cologne and 'Presley press down'—a pomade for kids with unruly hair."

Negro Convicts Mutilate Legs In New Protest

ATLANTA (UP) — Another leg-smashing protest against heavy work erupted at the state's rock quarry prison for incorrigibles, state corrections officials said yesterday.

Five Negro convicts battered their limbs with a 10-pound sledge hammer. Two succeeded in breaking bones. Three others were treated at the prison infirmary for flesh wounds.

Three months ago 41 convicts, at the prison, at Buford, Ga., attempted to shatter their legs in a similar demonstration and most of them succeeded. Three of yesterday's participants were among the original 41. They failed in the first mutilation attempt and the same three were unsuccessful again.

23 DAYS OF RAIN

Sea-Going Soldiers Survey Charlottes

Three months of sea duty was the unusual assignment of four members of the Royal Canadian Engineers' Army Survey Establishment this summer.

The army map makers were given the job as part of a new survey of the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the rugged British Columbia coast.

Leader of the party was WO 1 Frank Connors of Ottawa. His "crew" consisted of Sgt. Bill Mitchell, Vancouver; Cpl. Bill Sinclair, Vancouver, and Cpl. Carl Vance, Ottawa.

The "Sappers" chartered the 70-foot diesel-powered tuna fishing vessel Lady Royal from her owner, Capt. Jack Noble, of Victoria, and set sail from here May 21 bound for Prince Rupert.

At Prince Rupert, the group bought supplies for the coming months. They left that port May 26 and arrived at the fishing village of Masset in the Queen Charlotte's the same day.

23 DAYS OF RAIN

From then on bad weather dogged the party, with rain for 23 consecutive days. Under these circumstances surveying was impossible, but finally the weather cleared and the survey began.

On August 20, from Masset, the "Lady Royal" sailed to the port of Skidegate, where the weather was co-operative and further surveys went ahead. The Skidegate survey was completed by September 15.

SUDDEN STORM

Three days after the return trip to Victoria had started, a sudden storm, characteristic of this part of the BC coast, took the surveyors by surprise. Attempting to ride out the storm, the "Lady's" anchor fouled the bottom and the engine stalled.

Anxious moments followed as high seas battered the vessel, threatening to swamp her and almost washing the sea-going soldiers overboard. Some personal gear went over the side, but the sturdy craft survived.

The storm blew itself out and finally the "Lady" and her exhausted crew made home port in Victoria on September 21. Seasickness was a thing of the past and faces were tanned by the salt air.

Then it was back to Ottawa and the Army Survey Establishment's offices. For the next eight months, Connors and his party will transcribe the summer's work so that the computing and draughting sections of the unit can eventually produce finished maps of the area they surveyed.

Twins Neglected

The superstition has led to the neglect of twins and if a Nigerian mother were to present her husband with quadruplets or quintuplets, she would bring disgrace to herself and her family, Lady Ibiham said.

With her husband, Lady Ibiham is making a tour of Canada sponsored by the Presbyterian Church in Canada. During a visit here she told of some of the things missionaries have accomplished in the West African colony, a land of 73,000 square miles with a population of 33,000,000.

She said that efforts in Uruuru have dispelled the custom of nudity among women. It takes about a year, she said, to convince native women that they are more attractive, and respectable, when covered.

To help further dispel superstitions about multiple births, Lady Ibiham is taking a picture of the Dionne quintuplets to Nigeria when she leaves Canada.

Underdog Mims Upsets Beecham

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Holly Mims, 159, Washington, D.C., employed an effective head-body combination Tuesday night to win a unanimous 10-round decision over aggressive Jimmy Beecham, 160, Miami, in Miami Beach Auditorium.

Beecham, an 8-to-5 favorite, found himself under attack from the beginning. Mims, once a ranked contender, scored repeatedly with a blazing left hook to the head, followed by a hard right to the body.

Gallery Takes Wooden Nickels In Free Show by Numismatists

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Admission to the Art Gallery all this week is free—it won't even cost you a wooden nickel! But if you have a wooden nickel you'll probably be doubly welcome as a member of that elite and scientific fraternity, the numismatists.

Seriously, Victoria Numismatic Society is sharing the gallery until Nov. 25, with the 16th Victoria International Salon of Photography; and believe it or not, included in the exhibition of historic coins, are several early Canadian wooden nickels.

In order that as many people as possible may enjoy these two important, somewhat unique shows, the gallery schedule has been altered this week, hours being 11 to 5:30 and 7 to 9:30; Sunday, 2 to 5.

The following week will return to regular hours with the exception of the last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, when times will be once more as detailed above. Free admission is in effect for this week only.

It is easy to say of any annual affair that each successive year is the best yet. The 16th International Salon of Photography may not surpass all previous salons in the view of judges and the sponsoring Victoria Camera Club, but it is in this reviewer's opinion, extremely high on the list.

VERSATILITY
While all the expected and favorite subjects are again to be seen—animals, children, scenic views and architecture—the versatility of their presentation is wide and their technical perfection of a rare order.

One is impressed with certain parallels between the art of camera and darkroom and the art of the painter with brush and pastel. Delicate nuances of tone, exquisite textures, striking composition and the imaginative utilization of subjects to convey a thought, a mood or a message, link the modern photographer and his brother artist.

GENERAL APPEAL

This is an exhibition with a wide and general appeal; one in which every man, woman and child who visits the gallery will find pleasure, no matter how lacking in technical know-how they may be.

Many countries and ages are encompassed in the showing of coins and medals and other currency, possibly the oldest pieces exhibited being coins dated 138 A.D.

While of more limited appeal the numismatic exhibit is historically important and has its own particular fascination. Youngsters will probably be impressed by the showing of Davy Crockett's wooden quarters.

Canadian Troops Arrive in Italy

CAPODICHINO, Italy (CP)—Three RCAF planes arrived at this Italian base today during a morning drizzle, carrying the first 35 members of Queen's Own Rifles for the United Nations Middle East police force.

The planes took off from Montreal Monday night.

The contingent is commanded by Lt.-Col. G. K. Wade, Montreal.

The platoon commander is Lieut. D. L. Williams, 25, of Calgary.

Some of the Canadians looked serious and some happy-go-lucky as they returned to the land where the 1st Canadian Division made history in the Second World War.

All wore the blue and white armband issued by the UN command.

WESTERNERS IN GROUP

Supervising the unloading of the planes was 24-year-old Cpl. Edward Lamperd of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps. He comes from Ingersoll, Ont. Among those helping him were Pte. Fred Zack, 25, of Squamish, B.C., and Cpl. Hugh Graham, Stoughton, Sask.

Neapolitan families stood on the balconies of houses and shouted "Viva i Canadesi (long live the Canadians)."

Hundreds Ready Big Carrier For Her Role as Troop Base

HALIFAX (CP)—Hundreds of workers—many of them volunteers—swarmed over the carrier Magnificent during the night and started pulling down guns, unloading ammunition and hoisting aboard enough supplies to keep more than 1,500 Canadian troops in the Middle East UN police force.

At the bow of the big flood-lit carrier a team of surveyors was studying plates that were

CANADA QUILTS MOSCOW WORLD ICE TOURNEY

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—Canada will not send an entry to the world hockey championships in Moscow next year, the executive committee of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced today.

"Many of the executive members indicated they felt the great change which has taken place in world affairs during recent days had made the situation such that Canada should not consider competing in Russia," said George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager.

BUDAPEST RADIO REPORTS:

Hungarians Deported In Sealed Rail Cars

(See Also Page 3)

VIENNA (AP)—Radio Budapest said today that Hungarians were being deported to the east in sealed railway cars by Russian troops trying to end the rebellion in Hungary and get the workers back to work.

The Budapest station, controlled by the Russian-imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar, made the surprising admission in a broadcast explaining why the general strike was continuing.

Reporting on the situation late today in Szolnok county, southeast of Budapest, the radio reported that about 40 per cent of the workers had returned to work and that some rail traffic had started.

"But," the station said, "according to the latest reports prisoners have been transported to the east in locked railway cars and for that reason the railwaymen started to strike again."

The station said various plants were notified of the deportation of Hungarians and that "workers, therefore, now are leaving their jobs in increasing numbers."

Rumors that the Russians were rounding up rebellious youths for deportation have circulated on the Austrian border for several days.

The Vienna newspaper Der Kurier quoted Hungarian refugees as reporting the Russians also have started deporting the wives and children of rebels in order to stamp out the last vestiges of the anti-Communist revolution.

The refugees, who crossed the Austrian border Tuesday night, said the deportations began simultaneously four days ago at the towns of Szolnok, Debrecen, Nyiregyhaza and Puspokladany. In each place hundreds of women and their children were dragged into heavily guarded freight trains which afterward left in an easterly direction, they said.

Attempts of the insurgents to stop these trains broke down in heavy Russian fire, the refugees said. Some of the transports were reported to have left the country for the Soviet Union at the Zahony border checkpoint.

Anti-Soviet Riots Reported in Romania

VIENNA (Reuters)—Reliable sources said here today riots, arrests and anti-Soviet demonstrations have been taking place in a predominantly Hungarian-populated region of Romania.

The reported riots in the Transylvania region have not been mentioned by the official Romanian press and radio.

Noted Woman Medical Worker Dies at 81

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Winifred Cullis, ardent feminist known throughout the English-speaking world for her work to improve woman's status in medicine, died at her London home Tuesday night. She was 81.

When she was 80 she described the three ages of woman as: "Young, getting on—and wonderful."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

SUEZ IN BRIEF

1. UN secretary Dag Hammarskjold orders UN police force to start moving into Suez.

UN Word Needed Before PM Acts

Cabinet Waits Emergency Call To Sign UN Police Force Order

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The federal cabinet will be called into emergency session to approve the placing of Canadian troops at the disposal of the UN police force "as soon as we receive the green light" from the UN, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

(Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold gave the signal to start moving UN police forces into Egypt shortly after Mr. St. Laurent made his statement to reporters.)

Parliament will be summoned into special session when the cabinet has passed an order-in-council to send the 1st Battalion and part of the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, to the Middle East.

NOT UN TROOPS

Mr. St. Laurent emphasized that the advance party of Canadians that took off from Montreal for Naples and the advance staging area for the UN force south of that Italian city was not part of Canada's contribution to the UN force. It was merely an advance party exploring the facilities of the staging area to report back to the national defence department.

"They want to find out the conditions under which our Canadian troops will be living. They will report to the chief of staff (Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham). We do not want our forces to be living under less comfortable conditions than they have had at home," said Mr. St. Laurent.

Meantime, he said, the government had instructed the defence department to proceed with all necessary preliminary preparations so that the Canadian force will be in a position to move into the Middle East.

MANY PROBLEMS

Conditions laid down by Egypt governing the operations of the proposed UN police force in that country held up the movement of the force into the Suez area.

Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN force, said at Rome there were many "outstanding important problems" relating to his new task to be worked out.

He said some would require

$2 Million Polish Aid To Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Poland reported to the United Nations Tuesday the largest cash donation thus far for the aid of Hungary—$2,000,000.

The UN listed $1,000,000 from the United States for aid to Hungarian refugees. In all, nine nations offered a total of $3,762,500, plus food and other items.

France offered to accept "any refugees who wish to come here." Argentina pledged to take 3,000 refugee children. Canada gave priority to immigration of Hungarian refugees.

Definite quota acceptances were: Switzerland 2,000, Sweden 1,000, Belgium 4,000, Netherlands 1,000, United States 5,000, Britain 2,500, Italy 2,000, Australia 3,000.

Gomulka to Moscow

Associate Times Editor Chosen Canadian Delegate to UN Seminar

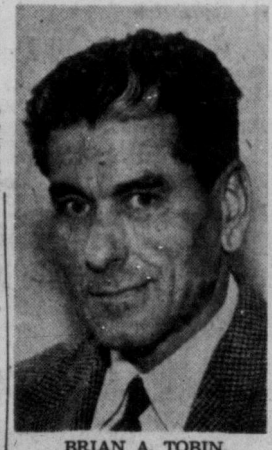

Brian A. Tobin, associate editor of the Victoria Daily Times, has been selected by the International Press Institute of Zurich, who made the announcement in Zurich, said that aim of the seminar is "to give journalists an insight into the work and the reporting of the UN, with a view to improving its coverage in the daily press."

Twenty-eight Canadian papers belong to the institute, whose world membership totals 875 in 40 countries.

Tobin, 47, attended Victoria College in this city and UBC. From 1939 to 1946 he was a war correspondent and bureau manager with British United Press. On his return to Canada he joined The Times as an editorial writer and columnist.

Married and the father of four children, Mr. Tobin lives at 2661 MacDonald, Saanich.

BRIAN A. TOBIN

Moscow Report Hints 50,000 Ready to Go

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today ordered the UN police force to start moving to Egypt.

(At Rome Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN Middle East force, said the first unit of the international policing body will fly Thursday morning to Egypt.)

The order came a few hours after Moscow dispatches indicated Russia was ready to go ahead with a plan to send Russian "volunteers" into Egypt at Egyptian request.

Dan Schorr, CBS correspondent in Moscow, was cut off the air by the Russians when he started to enumerate details of the volunteer force.

Schorr said in the broadcast:

"The Middle Eastern crisis has taken a grave new turn tonight. I am reliably informed that the Egyptian Embassy here has received orders from Cairo to ask for the volunteers that Russia has offered and that this request is being relayed to the Soviet government."

"Many things are still unclear. How many will go? The Egyptian Embassy said that it has more than 50,000 applications on hand. Whether they would take their own arms and whether heavy equipment such as planes and tanks will be furnished to them from here are other questions."

A reserve lieutenant-colonel was quoted in the Soviet press today as saying "I'm ready with weapons in my hands." There's reason to believe the volunteers will be formed into units here and receive their equipment here.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's order "from UN

headquarters in New York to the police force to start moving from its staging area in Italy indicated he has resolved snags that postponed the troops' departure first Tuesday and again today.

Informed sources said the first UN police units probably would leave early Thursday from Capodichino airport at Naples, Italy.

Hammarskjold himself planned to leave New York by plane this afternoon for Egypt, by way of Rome and Naples.

The announcement apparently meant the difficulties between the United Nations and the Egyptian, British and French authorities were settled.

UN officials said Egyptians have arranged to house 1,000 of the troops at Ismailia, a city lying midway along the Suez Canal.

Russia never has approved the UN police force plan, and for days it has been saying that British and French forces have no intention of withdrawing from Egypt. Thus the possibility of introduction of Communist "volunteers" into the area posed a threat to the peace.

Form of Opposition Unclear

At Washington President Eisenhower said today the United States would oppose—probably through the United Nations—any intervention in Egypt by Soviet or Chinese Communist volunteers.

He told a press conference, his first since re-election, that the nature of such opposition would depend upon the specific circumstances of any intervention.

A week ago, the White House issued a statement saying that the introduction of any new armed forces into Egypt "would violate the United Nations charter, and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

In Moscow today an Arab source said Egypt's ambassador, Mohammed El Kony, had been instructed by his government to request the immediate dispatch of Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt. It was taken for granted the Kremlin would put no obstacles in the way of the volunteers' departure.

'This Means War' Diplomat Says

At the United Nations in New York diplomats frankly admitted a grave situation might develop if Russian volunteers began moving and one high Western delegate said flatly "this means war."

The dispatches from Moscow, indicating the plan was in the process of being put into effect, sent American officials into conferences on the next step.

The Suez Canal likely cannot operate again for months, even with the best repair work undertaken quickly. The pinch on oil supplies in Europe is growing acute already; Sweden goes under strict rationing tonight.

Meanwhile, a team of 12 UN truce observers from Palestine landed at Port Said Tuesday and drove immediately to the front lines at El Cap, south of the port.

Until arrival of the bulk of the UN force, the chief mission of the observers will be to help keep the cease-fire along the 600-yard-wide no man's land in the canal zone.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns said today that while waiting for the arrival of Hammarskjold, he would make a "quick inspection trip" from Rome to the staging area.

EGYPTIAN CONDITIONS

President Nasser is reported to have insisted the international force be restricted to policing the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines, that it have no duties in the Suez Canal zone and that British, French forces pull out of the Port Said area immediately.

These demands run counter to stands taken by the British, French and Israeli.

Israel has made clear she intends to remain in the Gaza strip, seized after the thrust into Egypt's Sinai desert Oct. 29.

British-French headquarters in occupied Port Said blamed the Soviet consul there for an "undercurrent of intimidation" in the city. Slips of paper bearing the warning "death to the foreigners who collaborate with the occupiers" appeared under doors of homes in the city's big Italian and Greek colonies.

NEWS INK PRICE HIKE BLAMED ON MID-EAST

NEW YORK (AP)—Price increases were announced today for two important ingredients that go into newspaper ink. One of the increases stems directly from the crisis in the Middle East.

J. S. Hart, vice-president of the ink division of J. M. Huber Corp., manufacturer of printing inks, announced an increase of 20 per cent in the cost of news ink oils. News ink oils are made from a type of Middle East crude oil now in short supply, Hart said.

The price of another ingredient, carbon black, has been raised one quarter of a cent a pound, he added.

Wade and Wells Libel Hearing Against Laing Enters Second Day

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for provincial Liberal leader Arthur Laing protested Tuesday against what he termed attempts to "muzzle discussion of public affairs."

Senator J. W. Farris appeared for Mr. Laing at the opening of a libel and slander suit brought against the party leader by Wade and Wells Co. Ltd., a road-building contractor.

The action, which continues today, is being heard in B.C. Supreme Court by an eight-man jury under Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker.

Col. C. C. Merritt, VC, acting

for the contractors, said Mr. Laing committed slander when he wrote a letter March 15 about the Cassiar-Stewart highway in northern B.C. to Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who was then agriculture minister. The slander was repeated when Mr. Laing read the letter to party meetings March 16 and 21, Col. Merritt told the court.

IN TESTIMONY

Senator Farris objected when Col. Merritt said the defendant would have to show more than that he believed the statements in the letter were true, because they were presented in testimony before a legislative committee, but would also have to prove their truth by calling witnesses.

Senator Farris said that three government inspectors who testified before the legislative committee last February had "condemned" the Cassiar-Stewart highway.

"Is a public man, in pursuance of his duties, to be muzzled in his duties because he repeats what the records show in a privileged occasion?" Senator Farris asked. "It doesn't seem reasonable."

The senator and Col. Merritt had argued earlier when Senator Farris indicated he would refer to the jury portions from the two volumes of testimony given before the legislative committee.

"And after you've heard that evidence, you'll wonder how Wade and Wells had the gall to come in here," defence counsel said.

Col. Merritt read to the jury Mr. Laing's admission in pre-trial examination that he had read his letter to a Liberal party meeting to assure his supporters that he was taking action, but its effect on Wade and Wells did not occur to him.

The only witness called by Col. Merritt was Daryl George Wedley, 20-year-old Vancouver Sun reporter, who said he had written a report about Mr. Laing's March 21 speech in which the party leader referred to the Cassiar-Stewart road as a "complete loss" and as "nothing more than a rough path for 45 miles."

CHICAGO (AP)—Martin Ritchie, 15, was electrocuted on Monday night when he short-circuited 5,000 volts atop a utility pole while attempting to hang rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley in effigy.

Police said Ritchie crawled up the pole with a 5½-foot dummy. Five companions, who watched the youth climb the pole, said the dummy was fashioned to resemble Presley.

The court said if the fines are not paid she will go to prison for two months.

Policeman James Oldbury said Mrs. Haldane stamped on his dog's tail, causing it to yelp. Asked why she had done it, she replied: "For fun. That's what dogs' tails are for."

Mrs. Haldane's study of the female guppy fish, which produces young even when segregated from the male, recently led to a headline controversy in Britain over the possibility of virgin birth among humans.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two children of an orchestra leader's family died in their blazing home Tuesday night and their seven-year-old brother covered with burns, fought stubbornly to live.

Doctors said Noel Brien was burned almost beyond hope. Dead are five-month-old Gary Brien and his sister, Yvonne, 2½, only girl in band leader Fred Brien's family. Eight-year-old Fred and five-year-old Carl, the only other children, escaped from the house unhurt.

Their 31-year-old mother was in hospital in a state of shock with slight burns to her hands. In August, 1955, Paul Brien, five-year-old brother of the victims, was killed by a motorcycle in the street in front of their home.

Mr. Sargent was fined by Mr. Justice Moorhouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who said, "there'll be no trial by newspaper in this province."

The story appeared last Oct. 26, 10 days before the case went before a grand jury. It said the murder charge should be reduced and that the grand jury had power to reduce it. The jury returned a true bill. Brown was subsequently acquitted of the charge.

Brown was charged in the shotgun-slaying last March 19 of Milton Brown, 31, his brother.

Pioneer British Flier Dies at 76
CHRISTCHURCH, Eng. (AP)—Lt.-Cmdr. Frank Merriman, 76, a pioneer British flier and instructor who claimed he was the first man to fly through clouds, died Monday.

He took a Bristol "box kite" through cloud formations in 1912. Among his pupils were many of Britain's most distinguished aviators.

OH, GIRLS!—The envy of thousands of screaming bobby-soxers throughout the U.S., June Janico gets a friendly bear hug from rock 'n' roll idol Elvis Presley after she came up from her home in Biloxi, Miss., to be with him at Memphis, Tenn. June is reported to be "the one" in the quivering singer's romance department.

Bryce Stewart, Social Insurance Pioneer, Dies
TORONTO (CP)—Bryce M. Stewart, 73, a pioneer in the development of social insurance legislation in Canada and the United States and former Canadian deputy labor minister, died at his Scarsdale, N.Y., home Monday, it was learned here.

He was responsible for the establishment of the national employment service of Canada and was its director from 1914 until 1922, when he went to the U.S. to administer employment exchanges and unemployment insurance for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America AFL-CIO.

In 1930 he was appointed a member of President Hoover's emergency commission on unemployment and in 1934 he served as director of unemployment compensation studies for President Roosevelt's committee on economic security.

U.K. Leaders Claim Suez Move Foiled Russ

LONDON (Reuters)—Two government leaders said Tuesday Britain's intervention in Egypt foiled carefully-planned Soviet "intrigue" to take over the oil-rich Middle East.

Harold Watkinson, minister of transport and civil aviation, told transport authorities that Russia's growing need of oil for vast industrial expansion "alone must make the Middle East a target area for Communist intrigue."

"Some one had to break the perilous cycle of intrigue and intervention. . . I am glad we had the courage to do it," he added.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd told the Commons:

"We can now more clearly establish the extent to which Soviet arms and intrigue penetrated the area."

"It is increasingly evident that our action, directed as it was to stop fighting, has disturbed carefully-laid Soviet plans."

The secretary told the House of Commons the British-French intervention showed Egypt was already deep in the toils of the Russians, "so far committed by her dealing with the Soviet Union that she could not draw back."

Lennox-Boyd was the first senior minister to speak out on reports the invasion had forestalled a Russian plan to take over the Middle East.

He also attacked Russia's threat to send "volunteers" to aid the Egyptians, and added: "What has been going on in Egypt may be going on in Syria."

"This technique of intervention, first by arms and then by volunteers," he said, "is deeply disturbing in the sense that it attempts to clothe with legality the employment of private armies, whose aim in fact is to lay their hold on the state that they are professing to assist."

However, Dr. Jacques Jemey of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary Hospital said today he planned another periodic X-ray examination of the four-year-old chestnut colt in a "day or so."

And, he said, if the examination shows continued progress the sling which has been supporting Swaps for the past three weeks will be removed shortly.

Editor Fined For 'Trial By Newspaper'

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Mayor E. C. Sargent, editor and publisher of the weekly Owen Sound Herald, was fined $1,000 Monday or 60 days in jail for contempt of court in connection with a story in his newspaper which dealt with a murder charge against James Howey Brown.

Mr. Sargent was fined by Mr. Justice Moorhouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who said, "there'll be no trial by newspaper in this province."

The story appeared last Oct. 26, 10 days before the case went before a grand jury. It said the murder charge should be reduced and that the grand jury had power to reduce it. The jury returned a true bill. Brown was subsequently acquitted of the charge.

Europe Trade Plan Alarms St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed fear Tuesday night that Britain's plan to join with Western Europe in a "partial free trade area" may cause trouble for Canadian exports and weaken Canada's trade links with Europe.

Canada would welcome the scheme, he said, if Britain and her planned European partners not only remove trade barriers among themselves but also those they may have against Canada and other non-European countries.

"On the other hand, a partial development that resulted only in the creation of a new system of intra-European tariff preferences would interfere with trade between Europe and other countries, including Canada, without achieving the positive results which are expected from a full implementing of the plan.

WANT COMPETITIVE TRADE

This development of competitive multilateral trade, he added in a statement issued here, is the "over-riding objective of the Canadian government and of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

The U.K. plan is to link up with France, Germany, Italy and other West European countries in the development of a common mass market for their goods. Tariffs among the partners would be reduced gradually. Excluded from this scheme would be food, feeds, beverages and tobacco. Thus Canadian exports to Europe of these goods would not be affected.

Linemen Bash Way Into Grid Spotlight

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

Old Man Winter may have been trying to lull us into a sense of false security with the display of sunshine he put on Tuesday, but the ruthless old gent is undoubtedly planning to dish up a good number of rugged days before this deer-hunting season passes into memory.

And with the rough weather of late November that brings shorter hours of daylight and poorer visibility, always comes an increased danger of getting lost in the woods.

The danger of getting lost is a constant companion of those who follow the game trails. Every year we hear of search parties being organized to look for hunters who have failed to return from a trip, and often we learn that some of those searches could have been avoided had the hunters concerned taken proper precautions before starting out.

Actually, there should be no shame attached to being lost. It has happened to some of the finest woodsmen. The shame should be reserved for those who go into the bush without being prepared.

Although the responsibility of coming out of the woods safely rests squarely on the shoulders of the individual who goes in, he is not the only one to suffer if he doesn't return on schedule. Survival is not always a personal thing. It can involve many people and organizations, sometimes whole communities.

Search Starts on Small Scale

When a man fails to return from a hunting trip, rescue attempts are usually started on a small scale by his hunting companions and friends. If they are unsuccessful, the search soon grows into a full-scale operation, involving game wardens, police, outdoor organizations and volunteers.

Among the groups usually assisting searches in this area are the South Vancouver Island Rangers, who have trained their numbers in locating lost hunters. But the rangers must be numbered with the volunteers who willingly join in a battle to save the life of a man most have never seen, taking time off from their regular jobs and exposing themselves to many of the dangers which may have trapped the hunter. And behind they leave families who now worry about the safety of the rescuers as others worry about the man they seek.

Thus, survival is not a personal affair. Police and game department procedures are interrupted, money is spent on organizing a search, and many dollars are trimmed from pay cheques of the volunteers.

None of the searchers mind the hardships if their efforts help in the rescue of an injured man or a hunter trapped in the bush through no fault of his own. Few are pleased if it is learned that the man became lost through carelessness.

There is a vast difference between having to spend a night in the woods and being lost. It is always possible that by following an animal late in the evening or through a bit of confusion, a man may not be able to get back to his car before dark. Yet there is seldom an excuse for becoming hopelessly lost.

Three Basic Survival Items

Reams have been written on how to travel safely in the woods. Wise hunters already know what precautions to take. The foolish ones—the ones who say, "It can't happen to me"—will learn only after they have experienced the panic that can strike the unprepared.

The wise hunter will always carry the three basic survival items—matches in a waterproof container, a sturdy knife and a good compass. And he'll keep a cool head in an emergency, for panic can rob a man of energy and thinking ability and increase his chances of injury.

He'll make mental notes of his route while he hunts and know what general direction to travel on his return. If he should have to spend a night in the woods, he will try to select a sheltered place with a readily-available supply of firewood before darkness sets in.

The matches will start the necessary fire; the knife will provide firewood and have many other uses; the compass is the one safety tool that can be counted on to lead him out of the woods in the morning with a minimum of effort.

If unable to travel further, or actually lost, he'll keep the fire going to help direct searches and stay where he is, knowing that with a fire he can survive several days without food. He knows that help will eventually reach him, provided he remains in condition to help his rescuers, and that his experience will soon become only a memory.

For the foolish hunter who heads into unfamiliar country without a compass and unprepared to spend a November night in the woods, the story could have a less pleasant ending.

THE HAGEN STORY Chances I Took Often Paid Off

CHAPTER 21

There are days in competitive golf when every shot is a challenge. In my own game such days would see me hook or slice on every drive. I'd overrun the cup by four feet or more on a simple chip shot. I could miss a sure putt by inches.

There were days when I did everything wrong on one hole... or two holes... yes, even on three consecutive holes. And then on the fourth I could hit a long drive "down the pretty" with a terrific brassie to the far side of the green and chip in for a birdie 3.

Then there were days when I could click my pars off with almost predictable regularity... mixing them up for variety with birdies and an eagle. On that kind of day I could break a course record. On that kind of day I shot my 132 for 36 consecutive holes of competitive play at Wolf Hollow.

I was touted as the "iron man of golf," the imperturbable Hagen. Those rumors and news stories of the nervous Hagen never fooled me into believing them, or in letting up when I got a golf club in my hand.

I had one asset—the uncanny liking for a fight, for tough competition. When the opposition hit me hard enough I developed the ability to play a strong game with my back against the wall and the pressure on. And the chances I took paid off more times than they failed.

Undoubtedly this tendency to gamble on making my score the bold way accounted for the tag of "unpredictable" which the press and my fellow pros pinned on me.

My game was not built on wizardry or magic. It was based on a naturally good physical coordination, a liking for the game I played... and finally on strategy I developed through the years. On knowing what I could afford to take a chance on... and where and how to set up a shot.

It was also based on a driving urge to win each and every match I played. I don't believe it's conceit to say that I rarely missed in sizing up an opponent or a situation.

Willie Macfarlane, who won the National Open at Worcester in 1925, once said to me that a man must be lucky to win the National Open.

lockers. Before them a low bench was plentifully supplied with liquid refreshments. They pretended to ignore me.

"Let me take Hagen this year," Leo pleaded loudly.

"Oh, no!" Al Watrous yelled.

"This is my year!" "I'll get him," Bill Mehlhorn put in. "He's mine!"

The needling went round and round. I walked past the bench, hesitated until they were quiet. Then as though I'd heard nothing they said, I turned and pointed to each one individually.

"I wonder," I said slowly, "which one... of you... fellows... will be... second... this year?"

Then I followed my coterie around the corner to my own locker. Once there, I dropped my coat and went back to join the fellows and get in on the fun.

Tomorrow—Hagen tells how he became PGA champion in 1925, in a tournament during which he thinks he played some of the best golf of his career.

McColl Replaces Merriman as Medal Leader

Bill McColl tied with Frank Scroggs Sunday at Uplands Golf Club with a second round 70, to take over first place in the city medal golf competition.

McColl now has a 36-hole total of 143, while Johnny Merriman, first round leader, shot 75 Sunday to drop two strokes back at 145.

THE HAGEN STORY

Chances I Took Often Paid Off

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Session Heck he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Hagen biography.

CHAPTER 21

There are days in competitive golf when every shot is a challenge. In my own game such days would see me hook or slice on every drive. I'd overrun the cup by four feet or more on a simple chip shot. I could miss a sure putt by inches.

There were days when I did everything wrong on one hole... or two holes... yes, even on three consecutive holes. And then on the fourth I could hit a long drive "down the pretty" with a terrific brassie to the far side of the green and chip in for a birdie 3.

Then there were days when I could click my pars off with almost predictable regularity... mixing them up for variety with birdies and an eagle. On that kind of day I could break a course record. On that kind of day I shot my 132 for 36 consecutive holes of competitive play at Wolf Hollow.

I was touted as the "iron man of golf," the imperturbable Hagen. Those rumors and news stories of the nervous Hagen never fooled me into believing them, or in letting up when I got a golf club in my hand.

I had one asset—the uncanny liking for a fight, for tough competition. When the opposition hit me hard enough I developed the ability to play a strong game with my back against the wall and the pressure on. And the chances I took paid off more times than they failed.

Undoubtedly this tendency to gamble on making my score the bold way accounted for the tag of "unpredictable" which the press and my fellow pros pinned on me.

My game was not built on wizardry or magic. It was based on a naturally good physical coordination, a liking for the game I played... and finally on strategy I developed through the years. On knowing what I could afford to take a chance on... and where and how to set up a shot.

It was also based on a driving urge to win each and every match I played. I don't believe it's conceit to say that I rarely missed in sizing up an opponent or a situation.

Willie Macfarlane, who won the National Open at Worcester in 1925, once said to me that a man must be lucky to win the National Open.

"That's right, Willie," I agreed, "if you win it only once."

lockers. Before them a low bench was plentifully supplied with liquid refreshments. They pretended to ignore me.

"Let me take Hagen this year," Leo pleaded loudly.

"Oh, no!" Al Watrous yelled.

"This is my year!" "I'll get him," Bill Mehlhorn put in. "He's mine!"

The needling went round and round. I walked past the bench, hesitated until they were quiet. Then as though I'd heard nothing they said, I turned and pointed to each one individually.

"I wonder," I said slowly, "which one... of you... fellows... will be... second... this year?"

Then I followed my coterie around the corner to my own locker. Once there, I dropped my coat and went back to join the fellows and get in on the fun.

Tomorrow—Hagen tells how he became PGA champion in 1925, in a tournament during which he thinks he played some of the best golf of his career.

MANY CANDIDATES BARRED

Victoria Again Will Be Run By 'Businessman's Council'

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria is faced with another "businessman's council" in 1957. At least three factors make it all but impossible for anyone but a well-to-do businessman or retired person, or a housewife to run for council in Victoria today.

Perhaps the city is operated better by men trained in business. But the question in the minds of many city hall observers is: Is it fair to the many other social groups that comprise the citizens of Victoria?

The three prime evils, according to many intelligent would-be candidates, are still property qualifications, day meetings of council and committees, and restrictions which apply to teachers. Two of these are laid down in special sections of the Municipal Act and apply almost to Victoria alone. The day meetings are the responsibility of council and could be altered if council favored such action.

The property qualification says no one can run for council unless his real property is more than 50 per cent clear of debt. He must have $500 invested in real property above and beyond the owed amount of any registered mortgage.

Elsewhere in B.C. he need only be registered owner of property over $500 value. The Act is under consideration and may be changed next year to give Victorians the same privileges but it will not affect this year's election.

TEACHERS BARRED

The same special section of the act says no school board employee may run for civic office. This has been amended for the rest of B.C., and Saanich has its first teacher candidate this year. But in Victoria he is still ruled out.

Even if a teacher were permitted to run for office, his hours of work would make council attendance impossible. In this the teacher shares the same difficulty as most wage and salary workers. Low and medium income groups, teachers, tradesmen, skilled workers and even young professional people just starting careers are all affected by these restrictions and are unlikely to seek office.

An alderman's remuneration is $1,084 a year. But the man who earns $2 an hour would lose $300 at least from his annual job income if he took time off for all council and committee meetings.

ONE LACKING

Mayor Percy Scurrell has called for more candidates. There are five vacancies and so far four candidates: Ald. Austin Curtis, Elmer D. McEwen, Elgin Neish and Hugh Ramsay.

Aldermen Don Smith, Robert Macmillan and Arthur Dowell haven't announced whether they will run again. But there is speculation that Ald. Smith, recently elected as an MLA, may decide his legislative duties will be sufficient. Ald. Dowell may follow the course of Ald. W. F. Pinfold who has dropped out (in mid-term) as the two aldermen were closely allied.

Nominations are less than a month away. Last year first candidates came forward in August.

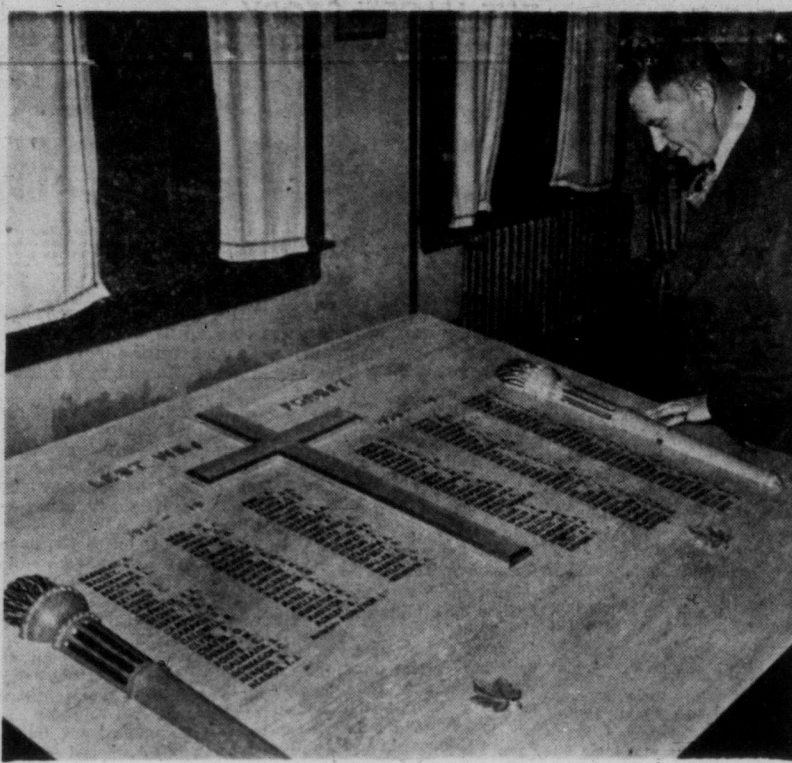

Some city hall officials believe there can never be a flood of candidates, representative of all sectors of public life, until some of these restrictions are lifted and the same measure of democracy which prevails throughout the rest of B.C. prevails in Victoria.

Ex-Winnipeg Newsman Dies at Detroit

DETROIT (CP)—Marshall B. Walker, former Winnipeg newspaper man who was editor of the Detroit Times for more than 35 years, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 64.

Walker had been news editor of The Times since he joined it in 1920. A native of Michigan, he worked on the Winnipeg Tribune before joining The Times.

He is survived by his widow, three sons and a daughter.

MEMORIAL PLAQUE, intricately hand-carved, was unveiled Sunday by Rev. G. R. Easter at the Remembrance Day service in First Baptist Church. Carved by Robert Laing, the plaque, which Mr. Easter is seen inspecting was dedicated to church members who served in two world wars. — (Times photo)

Nelson's Signal At Trafalgar Legend or Fact?

LONDON (Reuters) — A former Royal Navy man is trying to explode one of the most cherished anecdotes in British history—Admiral Horatio Nelson's message to the British fleet before the Battle of Trafalgar.

Ernest Walder, 76, says Nelson never signalled his fleet: "England expects every man will do his duty."

Walder, a former signalman, did not jump to conclusions. He made the announcement after 59 years of research.

"I am convinced the signal is a legend," he said. Using the signal methods used in 1805, the year of the battle, "It would have taken an hour to send and still longer to pass round the fleet."

"In any case it could not have been seen. What admiral is going to waste that much time when going into battle?" But the present commanding officer of Nelson's ship, the Victory, now a dockside museum piece, insists that the signal was made, "according to records." It was "mentioned in all the narratives of the battle."

Canada Will Introduce Radar On Both Airways, Airports

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association was told here that Canada will be the first country to have radar-equipped airways and airports.

John Gallagher of Toronto, a Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot, said a radar system should be in operation at all Canadian airports by 1959 or 1960.

"The whole world will look to us for the safest and most effective air traffic control system in the world," he told the 30 delegates representing 600 pilots who fly for TCA and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Presenting a report from the association's flight safety branch, Mr. Gallagher added that many "accidents resulting from pilot errors would be prevented if pilots knew more about their minds and bodies."

He told the delegates, attending a three-day convention, that pilots will start receiving monthly bulletins on the latest medical developments pertaining to flying.

Few pilots know it requires more oxygen to see at night than in the daytime, he said. Smoking, fatigue and alcohol cut into the oxygen supply.

The United States Navy now forbids smoking for the last half hour of a flight, Mr. Gallagher added. Mr. Gallagher also said that Canadian airports lack adequate fire-fighting equipment.

Wade and Wells Libel Hearing Against Laing Enters Second Day

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for provincial Liberal leader Arthur Laing protested Tuesday against what he termed attempts to "muzzle discussion of public affairs."

Senator J. W. Farris appeared for Mr. Laing at the opening of a libel and slander suit brought against the party leader by Wade and Wells Co. Ltd., a road-building contractor.

The action, which continues today, is being heard in B.C. Supreme Court by an eight-man jury under Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker.

Col. C. C. Merritt, VC, acting for the contractors, said Mr. Laing committed slander when he wrote a letter March 15 about the Cassiar-Stewart highway in northern B.C. to Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan, who was then agriculture minister. The slander was repeated when Mr. Laing read the letter to party meetings March 16 and 21, Col. Merritt told the court.

Senator Farris objected when Col. Merritt said the defendant would have to show more than that he believed the statements in the letter were true, because they were presented in testimony before a legislative committee, but would also have to prove their truth by calling witnesses.

Senator Farris said that three government inspectors who testified before the legislative committee last February had "condemned" the Cassiar-Stewart highway.

"Is a public man, in pursuance of his duties, to be muzzled in his duties because he repeats what the records show in a privileged occasion?" Senator Farris asked. "It doesn't seem reasonable."

The senator and Col. Merritt had argued earlier when Senator Farris indicated he would refer to the jury portions from the two volumes of testimony given before the legislative committee.

"And after you've heard that evidence, you'll wonder how Wade and Wells had the gall to come in here," defence counsel said.

Col. Merritt read to the jury Mr. Laing's admission in a pre-trial examination that he had read his letter to a Liberal party meeting to assure his supporters that he was taking action, but its effect on Wade and Wells did not occur to him.

Bryce Stewart, Social Insurance Pioneer, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Bryce M. Stewart, 73, a pioneer in the development of social insurance legislation in Canada and the United States and former Canadian deputy labor minister, died at his Scarsdale, N.Y., home Monday, it was learned here.

He was responsible for the establishment of the national employment service of Canada and was its director from 1914 until 1922, when he went to the U.S. to administer employment exchanges and unemployment insurance for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America AFL-CIO.

In 1930 he was appointed a member of President Hoover's emergency commission on unemployment and in 1934 he served as director of unemployment compensation studies for President Roosevelt's committee on economic security.

Girl Dies, CARE Milk Investigated

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon's education minister today ordered an inquiry into milk distributed in Ceylon by CARE, the American welfare organization, after hearing that an 11-year-old schoolgirl had died after drinking a glass of milk.

U.K. Leaders Claim Suez Move Foiled Russ

LONDON (Reuters)—Two government leaders said Tuesday Britain's intervention in Egypt foiled carefully-planned Soviet "intrigue" to take over the oil-rich Middle East.

Harold Watkinson, minister of transport and civil aviation, told transport authorities that Russia's growing need of oil for vast industrial expansion "alone must make the Middle East a target area for Communist intrigue."

"Some one had to break the perilous cycle of intrigue and intervention. . . I am glad we had the courage to do it," he added.

Swaps Recovering From Near-Death

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—Swaps, fourth highest money winner in American racing history, appeared today to be beating the "100-1 odds" against his recovery from a broken leg suffered during a workout at Garden State Park nearly a month ago.

When the 1955 Kentucky Derby winner later aggravated the work-out injury, a track veterinarian gave him a slim chance for recovery.

However, Dr. Jacques Jenney of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary Hospital said today he planned another periodic X-ray examination of the four-year-old chestnut colt in a "day or so." And, he said, if the examination shows continued progress the sling which has been supporting Swaps for the past three weeks will be removed shortly.

LEADING PROBLEM—Diseases of the heart now cause more than twice as many deaths in Canada as cancer, the next greatest cause.

Give them courage...

"We can now more clearly establish the extent to which Soviet arms and intrigue penetrated the area."

"It is increasingly evident that our action, directed as it was to stop fighting, has disturbed carefully-laid Soviet plans."

The secretary told the House of Commons the British-French intervention showed Egypt was already deep in the toils of the Russians, "so far committed by her dealing with the Soviet Union that she could not draw back."

Lennox-Boyd was the first senior minister to speak out on reports the invasion had forestalled a Russian plan to take over the Middle East.

He also attacked Russia's threat to send "volunteers" to aid the Egyptians, and added: "What has been going on in Egypt may be going on in Syria."

"This technique of intervention, first by arms and then by volunteers," he said, "is deeply disturbing in the sense that it attempts to clothe with legality the employment of private armies, whose aim in fact is to lay their hold on the state that they are professing to assist."

NEWS INK PRICE HIKE BLAMED ON MID-EAST

NEW YORK (AP)—Price increases were announced today for two important ingredients that go into newspaper ink. One of the increases stems directly from the crisis in the Middle East.

J. S. Hart, vice-president of the ink division of J. M. Huber Corp., manufacturer of printing inks, announced an increase of 20 per cent in the cost of news ink oils. News ink oils are made from a type of Middle East crude oil now in short supply, Hart said.

The price of another ingredient, carbon black, has been raised one quarter of a cent a pound, he added.

A week ago, the White House issued a statement saying that the introduction of any new armed forces into Egypt "would violate the United Nations charter, and it would be the duty of all United Nations members, including the United States, to oppose any such effort."

In Moscow today an Arab source said Egypt's ambassador, Mohammed El Kony, had been instructed by his government to request the immediate dispatch of Soviet "volunteers" to Egypt. It was taken for granted the Kremlin would put no obstacles in the way of the volunteers' departure.

At the United Nations in New York diplomats frankly admitted a grave situation might develop if Russian volunteers began moving and one high Western delegate said flatly "this means war."

The dispatches from Moscow, indicating the plan was in the process of being put into effect, sent American officials into conferences on the next step.

The Suez Canal likely cannot operate again for months, even with the best repair work undertaken quickly. The pinch on oil supplies in Europe is growing acute already; Sweden goes under strict rationing tonight.

Meanwhile, a team of 12 UN truce observers from Palestine landed at Port Said Tuesday and drove immediately to the front lines at El Cap, south of the port.

Until arrival of the bulk of the UN force, the chief mission of the observers will be to help keep the cease-fire along the 600-yard-wide no man's land in the canal zone.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns said today that while waiting for the arrival of Hammarskjöld, he would make a "quick inspection trip" from Rome to the staging area.

EGYPTIAN CONDITIONS

President Nasser is reported to have insisted the international force be restricted to policing the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice lines, that it have no duties in the Suez Canal zone and that British, French forces pull out of the Port Said area immediately.

These demands run counter to stands taken by the British, French and Israelis.

Israel has made clear she intends to remain in the Gaza strip, seized after the thrust into Egypt's Sinai desert Oct. 29.

British-French headquarters in occupied Port Said blamed the Soviet consul there for an "undercurrent of intimidation" in the city. Slips of paper bearing the warning "death to the foreigners who collaborate with the occupiers" appeared under doors of homes in the city's big Italian and Greek colonies.

ernment had instructed the defence department to proceed with all necessary preliminary preparations so that the Canadian force will be in a position to move into the Middle East.

Conditions laid down by Egypt governing the operations of the proposed UN police force in that country held up the movement of the force into the Suez area.

Canada's Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN force, said at Rome there were many "outstanding important problems" relating to his new task to be worked out.

He said some would require "long high level diplomatic negotiations."

Prime Minister St. Laurent has been in close communication with Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, who is at the United Nations. Hon. Ralph Campney, minister of national defence, has also been in touch with Mr. Pearson and the UN authorities.

A full report on the situation in the Middle East from Mr. Pearson was read to Cabinet today. Mr. Campney also reported on the preparations underway for moving the Canadian force abroad.
